THE IMPENDING CHANGE.—To THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.—SIR,—A Ministerial change of of some kind is nigh at hand. What is it? Who is the retiring Minister? The rapid expansion of an Opposition within the walls is not a surer indication of it than the gravitating of Mr. Cowper towards the door of the Assembly.
Mr. Cowper does not belong to that class of politicians who delight to revel on the Opposition benches. His motto has been, "In office or out of Parliament!" When Mr. Forster had the presumption to form his Ministry in 1859, Mr. Cowper protested against the Assembly's want of discernment and gratitude by resigning his seat for East Sydney. Again, when Mr. Martin was advanced to office in the beginning of 1866, Mr. Cowper once more resigned his seat for East Sydney, and retired in disgust from a House that had ceased to appreciate his abilities as a ruler. To say the truth, the constituency of East Sydney has been very indulgent to Mr. Cowper, and has bent to his whims and submitted to his reproofs in a spirit of wonderful meekness. The great metropolitan electorate has been as obedient as a child through all the varying fortunes of the ex-Minister. When he has wished to enter the House she has opened the door for him with a smile of fondness; when it has suited him to retire from the House, she has regarded his departure with a smile of pity. Great men in England have had their pocket boroughs, but Mr. Cowper possesses East Sydney, as a mistress who can see no faults in her lover.
The electors of East Sydney are opposed to the ad valorem duties, and Mr. Cowper is the statesman who passed the ad valorem duties after having been chosen as the champion of free trade; and yet the electors of East Sydney are enamoured of Mr. Cowper. The electors of East Sydney are in favour of our Public Schools system, and Mr. Cowper was the leader of the Opposition to the Public Schools Bill, but the electors repose their faith in Mr. Cowper still. A chain of similar glittering inconsistencies might be linked together in which the elected and the electors would form the jewels of contrasting beauty. But I have no wish to disturb the existing harmony, or do more than suggest the subject to some literary genius as one capable of being worked up into a beautiful chapter on the Curiosities of Political Life.
Mr. Cowper is, for the third or fourth time within ten years, going back into politics, which means going back into official service. I look upon that as settled, and there is nothing in it to excite my curiosity. But I am curious to know who is going out. Is it the venerable Postmaster-General? And if the member for Eden is to be the first peg moved, what other pegs are to be shifted to create the necessary eligible vacancy? Is the accomplished and amiable Mr. Forster to remove into Wynyard-square, and the author of Free Selection to go back to the Lands? Or can it be that Mr. Cowper is to resume his duties at once in the Colonial Secretary's Office, and that Mr. Robertson is to fill the vacant office of Solicitor-General? I have no complaint to make; I only want to know what the change is to be.
I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
A SIMPLE CITIZEN.

PHYSICIAN.—Have been ill; Lost your Gift.

BANKERS:
Bank of New South Wales.
AGENT IN SYDNEY:
William Wright, Esq., Drummoyne, Hunter's Hill.
TEMPORARY OFFICES:
J. J. Wright and Co., 69, New Pitt-street, Sydney.

This Company is formed to work one of the largest and most valuable pieces of land at the Thames Gold-fields, Auckland, New Zealand. The Directors being much importuned of late by their Sydney friends for investments on their behalf, and confident that this Mine will be one of the best paying investments on the field, now offer to their friends and the public generally a portion of the above shares, and, as only a limited number can be disposed of in Sydney, would advise those wishing to invest in this Company to make application for shares without delay.

The Sydney Agent (W. Wright, Esq.) has full particulars, plans, rules, engineer's report, copy of New Zealand Mining Act, as also latest information as to the working of surrounding claims, all of which can be seen by intending investors at the temporary office of the Company.

The property of the Company, as will be seen from annexed plan, consists of two leased blocks of auriferous ground, containing about thirty-two acres, situated on the Karaka Hill, between the Hape and Karaka Creeks, Thames Gold-fields, New Zealand.

The Karaka Hill has, beyond all doubt, established its reputation as second to none on the Thames Gold-fields, and the Company have been fortunate enough to secure a piece of ground stretching right across the range, surrounded by the "Rejected," "Hokianga," "Lord Nelson," "Pride of Karaka," "Captain Cook," "Wandering Star," "Pretty Nelly," "Black Eagle," "Golden Anchor," and many other claims, all of which have been at work for a considerable time, steadily yielding large returns.

Four large well defined Auriferous Reefs, varying in size from 2 to 6 feet, are ascertained to run right through the Company's ground; the one most worked upon being the Lord Nelson, which is giving very large returns. The Wandering Star and Captain Cook are also most valuable reefs, yielding returns equal to the Lord Nelson, and from the lay of the country, and surface indications, it is the general opinion that a number of the other Auriferous Reefs are running up the Karaka Hill, parallel with each other.

The position of the ground offers peculiar advantages for working the same, upon a plan not hitherto attempted on this gold-field, namely, by driving a main tunnel right through the hill, thus cutting all reefs at a level of 400 to 500 feet below the summit of the range; and as past experience on this field proves that the reefs increase in size and richness as they are followed down, the advantages thus offered cannot be easily over-estimated; it will also give the additional advantage of working this large piece of ground from each side of the hill at the same time.

It is proposed, after proving the richness of the ground, to expend £5000 of the capital in the erection of machinery, this amount being the estimated cost of a battery of 30 head of stampers, with sufficient steam power to drive an additional battery of 30 stampers, if required. The battery, when not required for crushing the Company's own stone, can be kept at work continually by the surrounding claims, at very remunerative rates.

From the facilities presented in working the ground, it is confidently expected that within a very short time from the commencement of operations the work will be self-supporting, and that the full amount of capital will not be required. Dividends, when declared, will be paid on all shares alike, whether the same be contributing and only partly called up, or fully paid up shares.

The Proprietors and the Sydney Agent with the greatest confidence place this undertaking before the public as one of the most legitimate and safe investments on this gold-field. The whole of the proceeds of the contributing shares will be expended in actual works on the Company's grounds, all preliminary expenses up to date having been borne by the original Proprietors, who, with a view of showing their own confidence in the undertaking, have by the rules of the Company bound themselves not to dispose of any portion of their interests for a period of 6 months.

The shares will be allotted in order of application, terms of payment as follows, viz.:—2s 6d on application, 2s 6d on allotment, and balance at calls of not exceeding 2s 6d per quarter. The Agent in Sydney will give receipt for all deposits, copy of which will be sent to the Directors in Auckland, when they will at once forward scrip, or hand same to any agent or attorney in Auckland.

Applications for shares will be received by W. WRIGHT, Esq., or JAMES J. WRIGHT and CO., 69, New Pitt-street, Sydney, from whom may be obtained Prospectus, or any information required.

Those wishing to invest in the above are advised to make their applications for shares without delay, as already one-half of those intended for allotment in Sydney have been applied for.

PROVISIONAL DIRECTORS:

R. M. Vaughan, Esq. Thomas Mylecharane, Esq.
Colin Campbell, Esq. C. C. Cunningham, Esq.
W. Wellington, Esq. H. Burrell, Esq.
BANKERS.—The A. J. S. Bank, Grenfell.
SECRETARY (pro tem.).—E. A. Baker, Esq., Grenfell.
BROKERS.—Messrs. M'Lennan and Co., Grenfell
C. Bate and Co., 165, Pitt-street, Sydney.

This Company is formed for the purpose of working the auriferous ground situated at Emu Creek, near Grenfell, known as O'Brien's leased ground, consisting of two acres held under lease.

The right to the ground has been purchased for the sum of £2300, and the proprietors take five-sixths of the amount in shares, and one-sixth in cash.

The proprietors pay all preliminary expenses incurred for registration, advertising, &c., &c., up to the time when the Company is fully established; the amount so paid to be returned to them if the Company is formed.

In the event of a sufficient number of shares not being applied for, the deposits paid to be returned to the applicants free of any deduction whatever.

The Company to be managed by a Board of six Directors, to be elected by the shareholders. Every holder of 25 shares to be eligible as a Director. One vote to be allowed in respect of every five shares held by any shareholder. Directors to appoint all officers.

The Share List to close on the 1st December, 1869, and all shares not applied for up to that date to be retained at the option of the Directors for higher rates.

The deposits to be paid into the A. J. S. Bank, Grenfell, and A. J. S. Bank, Sydney.

Dividends will be paid per share, without reference to the amount called up, and, when practicable, will be paid monthly.

No transfer of the proprietors' paid-up shares will be allowed till the Share List is closed.

The ground above-mentioned is well known at Emu Creek as being peculiarly suitable to be worked with advantage by a company. There are two distinct reefs in the 2-acre lease, one of which averages 5 feet in width, the other has not yet been fully developed, but has been proved to be payable. Besides these there is a third reef coming into the ground, which it is reasonable to suppose could be found at a moderate depth by sinking. The ground has been opened up for the last two years, and during that time 3000 tons of stone have been sent to the mills, the average yield of gold having been 12 dwts. to the ton. The sum of £3100 has been paid in dividends since the first crushing. The workings are now going on at the main reef at the 120, at the 80, and at 30 feet levels, in each of which fair average stone is now being obtained. In addition to which there is a quantity of surface stone that would pay a company having its own machinery.

The ground is situated adjoining the Homeward Bound, the Lucknow, the Britannia, and Wilson's prospecting claims, and is therefore in close proximity to some of the richest reefs that have been worked on the Emu Creek Gold-field.

It has long been considered that such reef claims as O'Brien's leased ground require to be worked by the aid of powerful machinery, and upon the most approved methods and principles, and that this can only be accomplished by the aid of a company having abundant capital at its command.

Applications for shares to be made to the Manager, at the Company's Office, adjoining the RECORD Office, Grenfell; to the Brokers, Messrs. M'LENNAN and CO., Grenfell; and C. BATE and CO., 165, Pitt-street.

PURE AUSTRALIAN WINE
The undersigned begs respectfully to inform his friends and the public generally that several of his WINES, from the Windermere and Luskintyre Vineyards, are NOW READY TO BE SUBMITTED FOR THEIR APPROVAL. While soliciting patronage, he assures them that, regardless of cost, for the last nine years every possible care and attention have been bestowed, not only to their growth, the soil, the selection of the choicest and most approved kinds (anywhere to be had), but in the cellars, in their manipulation by persons of undoubted skill up to the present moment. Therefore every confidence exists in the decision that will be awarded.
The vineyards are the largest in the colony held by one proprietor, containing 14 choice varieties: 69 acres in total extent—42 acres in full bearing, and 27 acres in progression.
The supply is considerable. The cellars contain over 25,000 gallons, with a prospect of an addition annually of from 20,000 to 30,000 gallons, all kept pure, separate, and without the slightest degree of adulteration; and it is confidently believed the quality can not be surpassed by any other winemaker in the Hunter River district.
They also possess a much-needed desideratum. They are now offered at a price which will ensure their extensive patronage by all classes who desire a pure, wholesome, and unintoxicating beverage.

GENERAL ELECTION.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of the Ministry of which I am a member, his Excellency the Governor has dissolved Parliament. At the suggestion of numerous friends, and in accordance with the course which I took so successfully at the last general election, I now respectfully present myself as a candidate for one of the seats at your disposal.

You are doubtless aware that the necessity for the present appeal to the country was precipitated in a manner unprecedented in the Parliamentary history of any British community. The Colonial Treasurer, on the 14th October, made his financial statement, exhibiting that the revenue receivable for the year 1869 will largely exceed that of 1868; that while the expenditure for 1868 exceeded the income of that year by £135,000, the income of this will exceed its expenditure by about £80,000; that he would be able to give up the newspaper tax on the 1st January next, and to reduce the ad valorem duties by one half from the 30th June, 1870, and to dispense with the remainder at the end of that year, and still have means enough to pay off from the revenue of 1869 and 1870 £230,000 of deficiency created by previous Governments; and that much of this beneficial change from the downward tendency of past years in relation to finance would be brought about by economy and reorganisation of the public service, commenced and in progress. These views met with the approbation of a large majority of the representatives of the people in Parliament, and I believe of the public generally.

The Parliament was not permitted, however, to give any authentic vote on the subject. A minority of members opposed to the Government banded themselves together, and, having formed relays to talk against time in order to obstruct the public business, continued to do so for nearly a month, and indeed until the day of the prorogation of Parliament. This obstruction, and the clear indication that although a large majority were in favour of proceeding with many measures which the Government desired to press forward, the minority would continue the same line of action, even to the prevention of necessary supply for the public service during the period necessary for the satisfactory conduct of a general election, induced the Ministry reluctantly to abandon all hope of dealing even with such urgently pressing questions as the bills to shorten the duration of Parliament, and to amend the representation of certain districts; to reduce the salary of future Governors and of other high functionaries; to define the grazing rights of conditional and other purchasers of Crown lands; to abolish the ad valorem duties, and the Newspaper Postage Act; to amend the laws relating to gold-fields; to amend the Superannuation Act, and other important and urgently required measures, which the public were fairly entitled to expect would at once be dealt with.

Although my political views and opinions are well known to you, I think it desirable that I should here make some allusion to the more prominent questions occupying the public mind.

I am in favour of such retrenchment and reorganisation of the public service as, while dealing fairly with the public employees, shall greatly reduce their number.

While quite aware that in order to pay the interest of money required for great and permanent public works, and to govern a sparsely settled population such as ours, large revenues are necessary, I am confident that the people will be better able to bear taxation with their energies unrestrained, their trade free, their right to seek necessary comforts unrestricted, rather than with their efforts cramped by what is so strangely called "protection."

The principles of our present land legislation appear to me to require no very important alteration.

I concur with the main principles of the Public Schools Act, and am strongly impressed with the opinion that it should have a fair trial before any attempt at alteration is made. I will not, however, shrink from avowing that, as I am entirely opposed to State-aid to religion, I would prefer seeing the Public Schools Act thoroughly secular.

I am desirous of pressing forward all the measures enunciated in the Governor's speech on opening the last session of Parliament; and as much misrepresentation has been put forth with regard to the bill providing for immigration, I may say that the attempt to fix upon it a sectarian character is utterly indefensible, as will be seen by any person who will take the trouble of reading its very brief clauses. I have, I confess, never been able to satisfy myself clearly of the rectitude of taxing the people of this colony for the purposes of immigration, nor of making free grants of land to new comers while we withhold them from natives of the soil, and therefore had not much faith in the measure, but only introduced it in accordance with what appeared to be the general wish and my official duty. These views I stated at the time, and left the measure in the hands of Parliament, with the expression of my opinion that if an immigration scheme must be passed, that one had less objectionable elements, and was more capable of being made satisfactory, than any other that had ever been submitted.

I am thoroughly convinced that the course proposed by the Government of continuing the railway lines to the wheat-growing districts of the North, the South, and the West is worthy of the approval of the country. I am convinced also that it is very desirable that every effort should be made to obtain a speedily telegraphic communication with Europe.

On other questions of public policy it will be my duty to address you as opportunity occurs.

In conclusion, I have only to say that the present election will give the people of the colony an opportunity of choosing between the advocates of long Parliaments, extravagant expenditure, unnecessary taxation, the fettering of trade, the restriction of civil and religious liberty, and the advocates of a more liberal and enlightened policy.

I am, Gentlemen, your faithful servant,
JOHN ROBERTSON.

Clovelly, November 23.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a numerous and influential body of the electors of West Sydney, I again offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages.

My political opinions were recently brought under your notice in the last contest which took place in your electorate, and since then they have in no respect changed.

With reference to State-aid to Religion, the Legislature having already dealt with that matter, I shall strenuously oppose any reopening of the question.

As to the Education Question, I believe the present Public Schools Act to be a great boon to the country, and well fitted to accomplish its object in our mixed community; and I would do all in my power to maintain it in its integrity.

I am in favour of a wisely-arranged system of Immigration, and consider the influx of population necessary for the development of the vast resources of this colony; but in carrying out this measure I would be opposed to giving any undue advantage to any single class of the community.

I believe a Civil Service Bill should be introduced, basing all future appointments upon the principle of Competitive Examination, which will do more than anything else to give efficiency to the Public Service.

The Lands Alienation Act I consider to have done much towards the occupation of the country; and I am strongly in favour of offering further facilities for the settlement of a class of industrious farmers upon our waste lands.

In connection with the settlement of the country, I would support all measures for improving the means of communication, consistent with a wise economy, in order that the natural resources of the interior may be opened up to the enterprise of capital and labour.

I am in favour of Triennial Parliaments.

I cannot, within the limits of an address such as this, set before you my views on various questions of public interest; but I shall endeavour to visit the different parts of your Electorate, and more fully set them before you; and should you honour me with a seat in the Legislature, I shall, to the utmost of my ability, with uncompromising fidelity, endeavour to promote the best interests of the colony; and no measure shall receive my support which will not, according to my judgment, accomplish that end.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
JOSEPH WEARNE.

Bathurst-street, Sydney,
November 24, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—Twice you have done me the honour of returning me to Parliament as one of your representatives. My public life for the last ten years is before you. As I have during that time freely given expression to my political views, both by my voice and action in Parliament, it is unnecessary for me to restate them in a newspaper paragraph. By my past conduct you may judge of my future course. The fact that I have been offered office on six different occasions, and that I have as often refused it, is, perhaps, some guarantee that I shall not be likely from selfish or ambitious motives to join in any combination which does not appear to me calculated to promote the best interests of the colony.

The imposition of the ad valorem duties being the only measure of importance passed during my short retirement from Parliament, I may state that I am in favour of specific duties, and would give my vote for any wisely devised scheme for their introduction.

As I am attached to the country by every tie, I trust that by re-electing me to Parliament you will enable me to add to the ten years of my early public service a ripened experience which may be useful to my fellow-citizens in after years.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
W. C. WINDEYER.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST SYDNEY.—

GENTLEMEN,—The Parliament, to which you did me the honour to elect me, having been dissolved, I beg respectfully to announce that, at the request of a number of my friends, I have consented again to offer myself as a CANDIDATE for your suffrages; and trust that the course I have pursued during the time I have been one of your representatives will obtain for me a renewal of your confidence.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
JAMES H. NEALE.

Sir JAMES MARTIN and HENRY PARKES, Esqs.,
are Candidates for election.
VOTE for them, and secure a triumphant victory for the cause of Right and Truth!

WHO INTRODUCED and passed the obnoxious Ad Valorem Duties? COWPER.

WHO VOTED against the present Public Schools Act? COWPER.
Then Vote against him.

SOUTHERN GOLD-FIELDS.—VOTE for F. W SCRIMES, the Miners' Advocate and a Free-trader.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SYDNEY WEST.

GENTLEMEN,—Owing to the influential support promised me, I am induced to offer myself as a Candidate for one of the vacant seats now at your disposal. If I should have the honour to be elected, I shall enter upon my Legislative duties with a determination to vote for the measures which I believe to be conducive to the welfare of the city and colony. My views on the various questions which will, sooner or later, be taken up by the new Parliament, I shall endeavour to put before you as far as the limits of an electioneering address will admit.

1. Education: I consider it the duty of the State to place education within the reach of every child in the colony, and the present system I believe to be well adapted to meet that purpose; therefore the Public Schools Act meets with my cordial approval.

2. The question of State-aid to Religion I look upon as settled, but it is possible an attempt may be made to renew that system in a modified form; any such attempt will not meet with my support.

3. Of late years Sydney has lost much of the interior trade in our direction of the Southern border, and I am confident a considerable part of this traffic may be regained; but in order to attain this end railway extension is necessary. Mr. Macleay deserves the thanks of the community for his recent introduction of that subject, which, I regret to say, met with little or no support either from the Government or Opposition. I would ask the electors to pledge their members upon this question; that is, to give priority to the extension of the Southern Line, after which the Western and Northern Extensions would have my best support.

4. The prosperity of Sydney, I consider, depends upon its commerce, and in order to promote this every unnecessary restriction upon trade ought to be removed. I need scarcely add that I am a free-trader, and am opposed to the continuation of the Ad valorem Duties Act.

5. The present Land Bill I consider to be unsatisfactory, both to the squatter and free-selector, and should advocate a new bill, having for its object—the disposal of the lands of the colony at a reduced price, and in quantities to suit the requirements of the people, payment to extend over a period of twenty (20) years, by annual instalments, with interest.

A carefully revised land law, on a freehold basis, I believe to be one of the most pressing questions of the day, and if my views on this subject do no other good than draw forth discussion, my object will, to a certain extent, have been gained.

From the waste lands of the colony a revenue might be derived which would obviate the necessity for additional taxation.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM SPEER.

Darling Point, November 25, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—Nearly twelve months ago you conferred upon me the very highest distinction you could offer or I could accept—that of representing you in the Parliament of the country. I was then entirely inexperienced in public life, and could only place at your disposal humble services which had no other merit than that they were offered with a sincere and hearty determination on my part to neglect nothing which I could accomplish in vindication of your choice, and in furtherance of your interests.

I have not taken any prominent part in the Assembly; but I have nothing to recant, to regret, or to apologise for. In the midst of strong party excitement, bitter political feeling, and a large amount of violence of expression and action, I am glad to say, for your honour, and my own self-respect, that I have said or done nothing to make you ashamed of your representative, or to cause me to be ashamed to meet you.

I have changed no opinion which I held when you returned me, nor have I given expression to any sentiment at variance with what you endorsed when you honoured me, unknown and untried, with your confidence. I can only say, that I shall endeavour to preserve the same line of public conduct in the event of again being placed in the same honourable position.

I shall have the pleasure of meeting you before the nomination, and affording you an opportunity of testing, by my explanation, my claim on your continued support.

I have the honour to be
Your faithful servant,
WILLIAM ROBERT CAMPBELL.

Campbell's Wharf, 20th November, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST SYDNEY.—

GENTLEMEN,—Having received numerous invitations from East Sydney electors to come forward as a candidate for the representation of that important constituency in Parliament, I have decided to place myself at the disposal of the electors either for rejection or the reverse.

I have been, as you all know, for several years a member of the Parliament of New South Wales, and while in that honourable position I attended very regularly, and rarely lost a chance of recording my vote; and I now respectfully ask any or every one of you to look over those votes, and if you can find one solitary vote of mine there recorded unfavourable to the well-known rights and liberties of men, or inconsistent with my constant and uniform advocacy of the liberal cause, I will be content to stand convicted, and withdraw at once from the contest.

I will do myself the honour of meeting you frequently before the day of nomination, and state fully the grounds on which I ask your suffrages.

I have the honour to remain, Gentlemen,
Very respectfully yours,
DAVID BUCHANAN.

Chambers, 95, Elizabeth street, Sydney, 26th November.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—At the request of numerous electors, I have been induced to offer my services to fill one of the seats in your representation. I have resided in the eastern division of the city for many years, and I think I may lay claim to an extensive acquaintance with the affairs of the colony.

From my experience in the Civil Service, I am of opinion that a considerable reduction in the public expenditure may be made without detriment to the efficient transaction of official business or injustice to individuals. This may be done best by amalgamating departments which are unnecessarily costly by their separation, such as exist by the present arrangement under the Minister for Lands, and by a general and impartial system of reconstruction.

I am in favour of such improvement in our land policy as would throw open our mineral lands more generally to the employment of labour and capital; and I would advocate all measures calculated to facilitate the settlement of an agricultural population on freehold homesteads.

The question of State-aid to religion and of public education I consider settled for some time to come, and I should regard any attempt to disturb the existing Acts as impolitic.

I am opposed to ad valorem duties, and I am in favour of a revision of the Customs tariff on a basis of specific imposts levied upon a few articles.

I am also opposed to the existing postal charge on newspapers. Should I be elected, I shall take my seat as an independent member, and I shall at all times consider it my duty to give my best attention to every question affecting the commercial interests of this great city, and to do my utmost to advance its prosperity.

I am, Gentlemen, your humble servant,
R. A. HUNT.

Sydney, 24th November, 1869.

HUNT, for EAST SYDNEY.—Central Committee Rooms, Camb's Commercial Hotel, King-street.

VOTE for HUNT.—An Old, Tried, and Faithful Servant of the Public.

HURRAH for HUNT!—A man of High, Honourable, Honest, and Independent Principles.

TO THE FREE AND INDEPENDENT ELECTORS OF EAST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN AND FELLOW ELECTORS,—Many of you will remember, that when you elected me to a seat in the Municipal Council, on the last occasion, I publicly announced from the balcony of the Town Hall, my intention of seeking your suffrages for a seat in the Parliament of this country at the next General Election.

That issue is now before you, and I have been strengthened in my determination to stand, by many flattering promises of support. Between now and the polling day you will have ample opportunities of becoming acquainted with my political creed; though I have no doubt that it is pretty well known to most of you, from a long personal and intimate acquaintance. Having held a seat in the Civic Council of this city for some nine years, my public conduct and votes on matters of general public interest have necessarily been prominently before you, and I believe I can say, without egotism, that they should entitle me to your further confidence.

However, in the event of your conferring upon me the honour of being one of your representatives in the ensuing Parliament, I can sincerely promise you that I shall consistently pursue the same independent and conscientious course as a politician, as I have invariably adopted as an Alderman.

Confidently trusting to receive your generous support,
I am, Gentlemen, yours, faithfully,
ALEXANDER STEEL.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE MURRUMBIDGEE.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to again submit myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the coming election. Should you once more entrust to me your representation in Parliament, I shall endeavour to justify the confidence you have so long placed in me by renewed efforts for the advancement of your district, and for the prosperity of the country generally.

I shall, as I have always done, support any party in power so long as their measures seem adapted to the general good; but at the same time I shall never shrink from the painful task of opposing any Administration whenever, I conscientiously believe that my duty to the country demands the adoption of such a course.

I shall have the honour and pleasure of meeting you as soon as possible, and furnishing you with such explanations as you may require of my past and future public conduct.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your faithful servant,
WILLIAM MACLEAY.

Elizabeth Bay, Sydney, 24th November, 1869.

HAWKESBURY ELECTORATE.—Mr. J. NAPTHALI will address the Electors in the various divisions of the electorate on an early day. Due notice will be given. Balmain, 26th November, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—The Government having called together the late Parliament for its final Session, at a period so near the natural termination of its existence, as to be without precedent in British Parliamentary history—and having announced in the Governor's speech a lengthy programme of contemplated measures, involving debateable questions of financial as well as of general policy, it became evident from the desultory attendance of members and other circumstances, that the satisfactory consideration of those measures with a proper regard for the public interest, would be absolutely impossible during the last days of an expiring Legislature. Acting on this conviction, I, in concert with other members, took that constitutional course, which has resulted in the present appeal to the country.

With reference more particularly to financial administration, the Treasurer's Statement was found to embody three propositions of a reprehensible, and indeed dangerous character; 1st, to carry on the Government of the country by means of borrowed money; 2nd, to give up a large amount of revenue, in the face of an acknowledged deficit; and, 3rd, to substitute for the indirect taxation thus abandoned, an odious and inquisitorial tax upon income. In connection with these proposals, Mr. Samuel submitted his Ways and Means for the years 1869 and 1870 in what I consider, and have always maintained to be, an artful and deceptive shape. In reference to the year 1869, he shows an erroneous balance, by crediting his revenue account with £50,000 of borrowed money—reducing thereby the real deficit of £149,684 8s at the end of the current year, down to the erroneously-stated deficit of £99,684 8s. On the other hand, his assumption of a largely-increased revenue for 1869, as compared with 1868, is based upon the expectation of receiving three-quarters of a million during the current quarter—an expectation which I hold to be entirely problematical. Even on the presumption that the revenue calculations for 1869 will be realised, there will still be a deficiency in revenue, as compared with expenditure, of £150,000 in round numbers, at the end of the current year. So with the account for 1870. In this account, Mr. Samuel estimates the year's revenue at £2,269,746, but he includes in this estimate £55,000 derivable from a project for increased stamp duties, now abandoned, and he calculates on obtaining a million from two sources alone—land and railway receipts—in which calculation I am unable to concur with him. In this revenue account of 1870, a second sum of borrowed money, amounting to £50,000, is credited, involving a gross breach of faith to the public creditor, as guaranteed by the Act of Parliament, 29 Vic., No. 4. Estimating the position of the year 1870 on these data it appears that after excluding the borrowed money credited in the revenue accounts of 1869 and 1870, and striking out £55,000 not obtainable from increased stamp duties, and giving up (as Mr. Samuel proposes) £120,000 of ad valorem duties at the end of 1870, there would be on that date a deficiency and loss of revenue amounting together to £266,483, instead of a surplus of £8516, as stated by Mr. Samuel.

In view of these facts it must be evident that the Government were not, and are not, in a position to part with the newspaper postage rate, amounting to £12,000 a year, nor with the ad valorem duties, amounting to £180,000 a year, without contemporaneously providing an equal amount of revenue from other sources. Nor, in view of these facts, can it be truthfully alleged, "that there are means enough to pay off from the revenue of 1869 and 1870, £230,000 of deficiency created by previous Governments."

Regarding the financial proposals of the Treasurer as injurious to the public interests, and damaging to the honour and credit of the country, I saw in those proposals, apart from other objectionable measures, sufficient to justify the course which I took in the Assembly—not for personal advantage, nor for party purposes—but to prevent irremediable mischief to the community, and to enable the constituencies, at the earliest possible date, to return to a new and vigorous Parliament the chosen exponents of the popular will.

Although I may fairly assume that my political views are well known to you, I consider that I should express a distinct opinion on several questions of public interest.

I am willing to assist in repealing the present ad valorem duties (which you will remember were imposed by Mr. Cowper), provided an equal amount of revenue be obtained from fixed or specific duties. I am in favour of taxation through the Custom-house for purposes of general government, as contra-distinguished from an inquisitorial tax upon income or property.

I am in favour of retrenchment that will not impair the efficiency of the public service, nor inflict injustice upon individuals. Certainly I am not in favour of that kind of retrenchment which vents itself upon cripples, paupers, and lunatics, which would weaken the police force, interfere injuriously with the administration of justice in the interior, and deprive a number of old and faithful public servants of their humble positions, while the higher and better paid functionaries are left entirely untouched.

I am opposed to the Immigration Bill of the present Government. Under that bill no sufficient encouragement is offered to immigrants of moderate means—while every inducement is afforded for the introduction of persons to compete with the labouring classes,—and as an attempted revival of the old "assisted system," the bill on that account is highly objectionable.

I am of opinion that the sale of public land should be encouraged by means of a reduction in price. We should add largely to our revenue from this source, and avoid, if possible, further burdens upon the necessities or industry of the people.

I am an advocate for the further extension of railways, with the object of developing, as soon as possible, the resources of the colony.

I presume no one doubts my attachment to the principles of the Public Schools Act, seeing that I was a member of the Government which passed that measure into law.

I have only to add that, should you do me the honour to re-elect me as one of your representatives, I will do my best to promote the general interests of the community.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
GEOFFREY EAGAR.

Glebe, 26th November, 1869.

TO GEORGE WIGRAM ALLEN, ESQ., J.P.

SIR,—We, the undersigned, electors of the Glebe and Balmain, being desirous that you should become the representative for the above borough in the ensuing Parliament, beg that you will allow yourself to be nominated, and we hereby pledge ourselves to use every effort to secure your return.

We know that you possess the qualifications necessary in a representative, and that in securing you for our constituency we consult not only its best interests but those of the colony at large.

November 18th, 1869.

Here follow 124 signatures.

To J. B. YOUNG, JOHN BOOTH, G. R. ELLIOTT, and MICHAEL CHAPMAN, Esquires, and the other gentlemen signing the requisition.

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the promises of support contained in the requisition which you have presented to me, and, in compliance with your request, I offer my services to the electors of Balmain and the Glebe, as their representative in the Parliament of the colony.

The retirement of the gentleman who has so long sat as the member for the Glebe gives opportunity for the election, in his stead, of a resident within the electorate, a qualification which, although not indispensable, is in most cases desirable.

I have lived at the Glebe for upwards of 30 years, and taken part in most public movements there. I was instrumental, with others, in the establishment of the Municipality, and have since its commencement, a period of more than ten years, held the chief office in the borough.

My opinions on the public questions of the day must be known to many of the electors, and it is not needful to do more than very briefly allude to those at present engrossing attention.

I am a supporter of the Public Schools Act, and I hope to see the advantages thereby afforded widely diffused through the colony. For thirteen years I held the office of Commissioner of National Education, and co-operated with the late Mr. Plunkett, and other gentlemen well known and respected in the community, in the practical carrying out of a system of education almost identical with that now established.

The question of State-aid to religion has been long since settled by the Parliament, and I shall not countenance the introduction of any measure tending to a reversal of the decision so arrived at.

I will support any well considered scheme of immigration which will have the effect of introducing and encouraging the settlement of an industrious and useful population.

I have ever been opposed to ad valorem duties, believing that the system is highly detrimental to the interests of commerce generally, and destructive to the intercolonial trade of the country. I believe that taxation by means of the Customs should be for purposes of revenue, and not for protection.

If elected, I shall take my seat free from the bias of party feeling, and, while paying due attention to the local interests of the electorate which I shall have the honour to represent, I shall act and vote as my judgment may dictate, so as to promote the best interests of the country generally, and support measures conducive to this end, irrespective of personal or party considerations.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
G. WIGRAM ALLEN.

Strathmore, Glebe Point, 19th November, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE ELECTORATE OF EDEN.

GENTLEMEN,—Parliament having been dissolved, I beg to intimate my intention of again becoming a candidate for your suffrages, and will take an early opportunity of meeting you in the electorate. Having represented you for the last sixteen years, I trust that nothing on my part has in any way occurred to lessen the confidence you have so long placed in me.

Believe me, Gentlemen,
Your faithful servant,
DANIEL EGAN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WOLLOMBI.

GENTLEMEN,—The Legislative Assembly having been dissolved, in which I have served you ten years, and I trust faithfully, I now again with confidence offer myself as a Candidate for your suffrages at the forthcoming election.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
JOSEPH ECKFORD.

West Maitland, November 19, 1869.

AT a MEETING, held on Thursday night, November 25, at the School of Arts, North Shore, it was resolved,—"That the Hon. William Forster, Minister for Lands, be invited to offer himself as a candidate to represent the electorate of St. Leonards in the Legislative Assembly."

To the Hon. William Forster, Esq., &c., &c., Ryde.

We, the undersigned electors of St. Leonards, having confidence in your honesty, zeal, and ability in the administration of public business, and deeming you in every way well qualified to perform the duties of a representative, hereby request you will be a candidate for the representation of St. Leonards in the ensuing Parliament, in which case we pledge our best exertions to make your election sure.

(Here follow a number of signatures.)

TO THE ELECTORS OF ST. LEONARDS.

I have the honour, in reply to the above invitation and requisition, to announce myself as a Candidate for the representation of the Electoral District of St Leonards.

As a public man, I am too well-known to render it necessary for me to attempt the disagreeable task of specifying such public qualifications as I may be thought to possess, or of recalling such public services as I may imagine myself to have performed.

The policy of the Government has been already placed before the country, and subjected to the hostile criticism of opponents, who have shown themselves adepts in the art of finding fault, who have a strong personal interest in misrepresentation, and who have certainly not been remarkable either for reticence, or for a disposition to extenuate the errors of any Administration of which they have not themselves formed a part. Even their hostile criticism, however, might have been more creditable to these honourable gentlemen, and more useful to the country, if it had not been, by the blind extravagance of party spirit, pushed to such an extreme as to have rendered legislation impracticable, and Parliament a mere arena of personal abuse and rhetorical objurgation.

Against this unmeaning and unconstitutional opposition, which has exhausted the patience of the people for two Sessions, my colleagues and myself appeal to your suffrages, for such a reinforcement of parliamentary strength as may enable the Government to carry on the public business, and may prevent our institutions from degenerating into hopeless burlesque, or possibly withering into premature decay.

Any further information you may require, upon these or any other subjects interesting to a constituency, I shall be happy, so far as may be in my power, to afford at the various public meetings which I propose holding throughout the district, and of which due notice will be given from time to time.

WILLIAM FORSTER.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE HASTINGS.

Though I have no reason to believe, that, were I to present myself for re-election, I should fail to secure the approval of my late constituents; yet, finding it difficult, if not impossible, to spare from my ministerial duties the necessary time for visiting and canvassing so remote and extensive a district as yours, I have determined on accepting a requisition for one more easily accessible. I therefore bid you farewell, with a deep sense of gratitude, for the courtesy and consideration I have always received at your hands, and a fervent hope that, in whatever position I may be placed, I may never be so forgetful of our past connection as to be insensible to your interests, or unwilling to do any service in my power for the electors of the Hastings.

WILLIAM FORSTER.

Sydney, November 26, 1869.

I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,
S. C. BROWN.

T. M. SLATTERY, } Secretaries.

TO THE ELECTORS OF PADDINGTON.

Having had the honour of being returned three times to Parliament as your representative, I, the less reluctantly, again appear before you as a candidate for the same high position.

On my acceptance of office in the present Government you generously accorded to me your confidence. Since then I have with painstaking care, for upwards of a year performed to the best of my ability, and I trust to your satisfaction, the arduous and important duties of Minister for Public Works.

The time when you will again be called upon to elect a representative is speedily approaching; and I trust when performing that highly important and responsible duty there will be nothing remembered in the past, during the long period I have had the honour of representing you, to prevent your continuance of confidence, and my return to Parliament as your member.

Thanking you for the kindness and consideration which has marked your conduct towards me.

I am, your faithful servant,
JOHN SUTHERLAND.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE "BOGAN ELECTORATE."

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to intimate my intention of again seeking your suffrages. Having had for so many years the honour of representing you in Parliament, my views upon most public matters must be well known to you.

I will, however, visit the district prior to the day of nomination, and afford those who may wish it an opportunity of ascertaining my opinions upon any important question.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Yours, obediently,
G. W. LORD.

To Andrew Kerr, Esq., J.P., James Dale, Esq., J.P., Robert Frost, Esq., John Woodward, Esq., William Dale, Esq., Messrs. Nelson, Brothers, and the other gentlemen signing the requisition.

GENTLEMEN,—In compliance with your very flattering requisition, I offer myself as a Candidate for the representation of your district in the new Parliament.

It is now more than fifteen years since I first sought, as an advocate of Free Trade, the suffrages of the Electors at Orange, then a portion of the Electoral Counties of Roxburgh and Wellington; and it is gratifying to me to find that after so long a period I still retain the confidence of many who then sided in securing my return to the old Legislative Council.

As the Minister charged specially with fiscal matters, I have endeavoured on several occasions, in propositions for raising revenue, so to legislate as to relieve trade and commerce as much as possible, believing that restrictions are calculated to retard the progress and industry of the community. The allegation that I have ever suggested the abolition of the Customs is without foundation. I have never advocated any thing so absurd and impracticable; but I have urged, and shall continue to urge, the desirability of abolishing the ad valorem duties, and following the enlightened policy of the mother country, by adopting a tariff limited to a small number of articles bearing fixed duties. I believe that with careful administration of our resources and proper economy in our expenditure, the revenue of the country, without the ad valorem duties, will be sufficient to meet all demands upon it, and render increased taxation unnecessary.

The extension of the lines of railway to the fine agricultural lands in the north, south, and west, will tend rapidly to promote the settlement of the country, and thus increase the revenue without adding very largely to the expenditure.

With several of my colleagues, I assisted in passing into law the present Public Schools Act, and I will be no party to any changes in the principles of that measure. I will not hide from you, however, that in the event of any alteration being deemed desirable, my tendency would be to make it more secular.

In abolishing State-aid to religion, and opening the Legislature and the educational institutions of the country to persons of all religious denominations, the colony has set an example which may well be copied by older countries,—thus establishing a system of the most perfect religious equality, of which I always have been, and am still, a warm advocate. During the present elections an attempt will be made—nay, has been made—to appeal to the religious prejudices of the people, with a view to serve party purposes. You have shown that you are not to be influenced by any such attempt, which I feel assured will be deprecated by the people throughout the country.

I will meet the electors before the day of nomination, and state fully the grounds upon which the Government of which I am a member seek for public confidence and support; and I need scarcely add that, should I again be placed in the proud position of your representative, no effort shall be wanting on my part to maintain and promote your interests and the well-being of the country.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
SAUL SAMUEL.

Sydney, November 25th, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WINDSOR AND RICHMOND.

GENTLEMEN,—Yielding to the urgent solicitations of many of your number, I again offer myself as a candidate for the honour of your suffrages at the ensuing general election.

Having already successfully contested three elections, and been your representative in Parliament for about ten years, my political opinions must necessarily be well known to most of you. I may, however, here state, particularly, that you may rely upon my constant adherence to the maintenance of the Public Schools Act in its integrity; and that I will support and advocate a proper and thorough system of retrenchment in the public expenditure.

I will probably take the opportunity of meeting you publicly prior to the day of election; and, with sincere thanks for the past expression of your confidence, which I have no doubt will be renewed,

I remain, your most obedient servant,
WILLIAM WALKER.

Windsor, November 22nd.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST CAMDEN.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg respectfully to inform you that I am again a candidate for your suffrages at the ensuing election.

Thanking you very sincerely for the honour you have twice conferred on me by electing me as one of your representatives, and trusting once more to meet with your support,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN MORRICE.

Browley, Moss Vale, November 18.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE COUNTY OF CAMDEN.

GENTLEMEN,—A new Parliament being about to be elected, into which it is to be hoped a great deal of fresh blood will be infused, I offer myself for your suffrages.

Being personally so well known to the electors generally, from my long residence amongst them, and my political opinions having been so frequently announced to them, I trust that in consequence of my present professional engagements I may be excused a personal canvass.

I purpose, however, being present on or before the day of nomination.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM SHERWIN, M.D.,
F.R.C.S., Engd.

333, Liverpool-street, Sydney.

ELECTORATE OF CANTERBURY.

To James Turner, Alfred Tye, and George Fowler, Esqrs., and the 344 electors signing the requisition wishing me to represent them as a Member of the Legislative Assembly for the Electorate of Canterbury.

GENTLEMEN,—In compliance with your numerously and respectably signed requisition, I now offer myself as a Candidate for your suffrages at the coming Election, as a Member of the Legislative Assembly.

I have been a long resident in the Electorate, and am well known to very many of you; but I deem it necessary very briefly to state my political opinions.

I am in favour of Free-trade, believing that the prosperity of this great country depends upon a proper management of its fiscal policy. To place restrictions upon its trade and commerce, which may advantage a few, must ever have a baneful influence on the community.

The Public Schools Act I look upon as a wise and beneficial measure.

I will, should you elect me, endeavour to preserve it in its integrity, for I am satisfied, if properly administered, full justice will be done to all classes and sections of the community, and a good liberal education be provided for the rising generation.

I am for maintaining the present Land laws in their full vigour, with such necessary amendments as time and experience will suggest; but I believe the fundamental principles of these laws are just and equitable, and such as must conduce to the settlement of the waste lands of the colony, by an independent and enterprising agricultural population, the basis of the wealth and prosperity of the country.

I am for the entire abolition of the ad valorem duties, believing them to be unjust in principle and oppressive in practice. And I shall also be in favour of a sound and practicable scheme of immigration.

I regard the question of State-aid to religion as finally settled, and should be opposed to the opening of that question.

On other matters I shall avail myself of opportunities to explain my opinions before the day of election.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your respectful servant,
THOS. SULLIVAN.

VOTE FOR SULLIVAN.—Good Men, awaken to your own interests, and place him at the head of the Poll.

CANTERBURY ELECTION. — VOTE FOR SULLIVAN, one of yourselves, the proper Man.

ELECTORS OF CANTERBURY.—VOTE FOR SULLIVAN, whose principles are upright and liberal.

SULLIVAN FOR CANTERBURY.—Mr. SULLIVAN will shortly MEET the ELECTORS, and give an exposition of his political opinions.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CANTERBURY

Mr. THOMAS SULLIVAN, of Petersham, has consented to be placed in nomination for the above electorate. The requisition will shortly appear.

Electors, look to your own interests, and elect a man who will truly and faithfully represent you in the new Parliament.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CANTERBURY.

GENTLEMEN,—I am a candidate for your suffrages at the coming election.

As an Australian, I feel a deep interest in the prosperity of my native land. Most of the years of my life have been spent in the electorate; I am thoroughly identified with its interests, and for the last twenty years I have taken an active and independent part in politics.

A large number of electors express their confidence in me, and have requested me to become a candidate to represent you in the new Parliament.

I hope soon to meet you, and will then expound my views on the various political questions of the day.

WILLIAM HENSON.

Ashfield, November 20.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CANTERBURY.

At the request of many influential electors, I am induced to ask your suffrages at the coming election.

I want no place, and I seek no patronage from any Ministry.

I shall be truly and thoroughly an independent member, if returned by you, and a representative of the constituency without distinction of class or creed.

On public measures, I hold the following opinions:—I will support FREE TRADE; I will oppose ad valorem duties; I will maintain the existing law on Public Education. But I am prepared to remedy any injustice resulting from the mode of administering it.

I am known to most of the electors.

I have been a consistent Liberal.

I am no stranger; I am a resident in the electorate, and I look for your suffrages with confidence.

M. R. TEMPLETON.

Mermion, Waverley, November 26.

TO MESSRS. JAMES BYRNES AND JAMES S. FARNELL.

GENTLEMEN,—Your connection with us, the undersigned Electors of the borough of Parramatta, as our representatives in the Legislative Assembly having ceased through the dissolution of the late Parliament, and feeling every satisfaction with your past political conduct, we beg to request that you will allow yourselves to be again placed in nomination as candidates for the representation of this borough.

We are, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servants,
John Good, Mayor; Aldermen Pye, Harvey, Williams, Byrnes, and Smith; T. W. Bowden, J.P., John Neal, J.P., Neil Stewart, J.P., Hugh Fairclough, J.P., Andrew Payten, J.P., J. C. Rutter, J.P., and 296 other Electors.

To his Worship the Mayor of the Borough of Parramatta, and Messrs. Aldermen Pye, Harvey, Williams, Byrnes, Smith, T. W. Bowden, J.P., John Neal, J.P., Neil Stewart, J.P., Hugh Fairclough, J.P., Andrew Payten, J.P., J. C. Rutter, J.P., and the other 296 gentlemen signing the requisition.

GENTLEMEN,—We are glad to learn from the above requisition, that our connection with you as the representatives of the borough of Parramatta, during the late Parliament, has been satisfactory.

Your desire to give a further manifestation of your confidence in us, by requesting that we should again allow ourselves to be placed in nomination for the representation of the Electorate of Parramatta is highly gratifying to us, and we have much pleasure in placing our humble services at your disposal.

Should we be honoured with a seat in the New Parliament, our past career will be some guarantee for the faithfulness with which we may be expected to discharge the duties devolving upon us as your representatives.

JAMES BYRNES.
JAMES S. FARNELL.

Parramatta, November 26.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SHOALHAVEN.

GENTLEMEN,—At the request of several influential electors, I offer myself as a candidate for a seat in the new Parliament as your representative.

If honesty of purpose, freedom from selfish ends, and a desire to promote the prosperity and progress of the country constitute a claim for support, I think I may prefer such claim. If I cannot point to the value of past services, I can, without hesitation, assure you that I shall always endeavour to act in accordance with my professions, so that, in the event of your doing me the honour to elect me, you shall have no reason to regret your choice, or be able to point to a great disparity between my profession as a candidate and my performance as a member.

It will be my object to support every measure framed so as to promote the best interests of the people material and moral. Whatever may commend itself to my judgment as fitted to extend the blessing of education among all classes, without invidious distinctions—encourage industry, adapt fiscal regulations so as to harmonise, as far as practicable, with an equal pressure of the public burdens, and an extension of commerce, and facilitate the introduction of population from the United Kingdom by making this colony attractive to all whose character and habits qualify them to advance the general weal.

I intend, without delay, to visit your district, when I shall have the honour of explaining more fully than I can do in this address, my views on the various prominent questions of the day.

Meanwhile, gentlemen, I proffer you my hearty services, and trust that, on further acquaintance, you will find me worthy of being returned as your representative in the forthcoming Parliament.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
SAMUEL GOOLD.

Woollahra, November 18, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SHOALHAVEN.

GENTLEMEN,—I left town on Thursday evening last, for the purpose of proceeding overland to your district, but was thrown from my horse, near Kangaroo Valley, and broke my collar bone, necessitating my return to Sydney. As my medical adviser gives me hope of being able to meet you on or before the day of nomination, I still persevere in my candidature, and trust that, despite the untoward accident which has befallen me, my friends will not relax their exertions on my behalf.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
SAMUEL GOOLD.

Woollahra, 20th November, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SHOALHAVEN.

GENTLEMEN,—The Assembly having been dissolved, I respectfully offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages again.

I shall take the earliest and frequent opportunities of addressing you on public affairs.

Your obedient servant,
THOMAS GARRETT.

Sydney, November 17, 1869.

ELECTORS OF SYDNEY EAST.—W. COVER hopes to have an opportunity soon of addressing you on the subject of his candidature.
November 26th, 1869.

ELECTORS OF CENTRAL CUMBERLAND—JAMES JONES, the advocate of the principles of progress and advanced legislation, will offer his services in your interest. Do not pledge your votes.

GENERAL ELECTION.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRAL CUMBERLAND.—GENTLEMEN,—The state of parties in the late Assembly having rendered an appeal to the constituencies necessary, I beg to state that I intend again to become a candidate for your suffrages.

I feel that the limits of an address through the newspapers would be inadequate to convey to you the principles which have guided me in the past, as well as those which would actuate me in the future, should I be honoured by your confidence. As I intend, however, to visit all parts of the electorate before the day of nomination, I will defer my explanation till then.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN LACKEY.

Woodville, Doptrap Road.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE DISTRICT OF QUEANBEYAN.

GENTLEMEN,—Our late respected representative, L. F. De Salis, Esq., having informed me that he has no intention of accepting a seat in the ensuing Parliament, and many of you having kindly expressed a wish that I should become his successor, I beg to offer my services as your representative in the Legislative Assembly, and to solicit your votes. I have been so long connected with this district, and must be so well known to the old residents, that even if electioneering professions were not proverbially valueless, I should deem it needless to trouble you now with a statement in detail of my opinions on all the public questions of the day. You may, however, deem it desirable that I should briefly advert to a few of the most prominent.

I am strongly in favour of a comprehensive and well-digested measure of Law Reform, and of the introduction into the Cabinet of a Minister of Justice and Education, instead of a Secretary for Public Works.

I shall not countenance agitation for the renewal of State-aid to religion; but I shall do my best to have the proceeds of the Church and School Lands appropriated to the support of ministers of religion in the poor and sparsely populated districts of our remote interior.

I have no wish to disturb the general system of Education now established in this colony, provided Denominational education for those who prefer it be not destroyed. With reference to this great question, I feel persuaded that as National education is still in an experimental state, we should make a fatal mistake if we were rashly to stereotype a system.

As an advocate for the principles of Free-trade generally, I allow indirect taxation solely with a view to the raising of an adequate revenue, and NOT for the purpose of Protection. I have a very strong objection to ad valorem duties.

With regard to the public lands, to any system which will secure to the poor equally with the rich a permanent home, which will foster an independent yeomanry, the most valuable body of men in every commonwealth, as well as protect the industry of our sorely tried fellmasters, and which will invite immigration by holding out to settlers bringing, from all parts of the United Kingdom, small capital, combined with skilled labour, every proper inducement to select Australia for their home, my cordial support shall be given. Surely, nothing but lamentable ignorance of the elements of political economy and our unhappy divisions can prevent the rapid progress of a British colonial community, possessing a country with large tracts of good land at present but partially occupied, with a soil and climate adapted not only to wine-growing, but to cotton and corn, to sugar and the grape, to oil and tobacco; in short, to all cereals, fruits, and vegetables—with large mineral resources—where few epidemic diseases prevail and where, as in the district of Queanbeyan, the atmosphere is dry and pure, and the water yielded by our mountain springs and streams is cool and refreshing.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
CHARLES CAMPBELL.

Duntroon, 23rd November, 1869.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE HASTINGS.

GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a large and influential body of the electors of your constituency, I beg to announce myself as a candidate for your suffrages. As this is the first appeal of the kind I have ever made, I deem it to be my duty to state fully and explicitly the views I entertain on the leading public questions of the day, and other important topics which have not yet been politically agitated. Before doing so, however, I will at once state, that I come before you as an independent candidate. In the programme of principles I am about to lay before you, my convictions are clearly expressed. By this avowal, I respectfully submit, you should judge me; and if, in your opinion, the principles which I enunciate are calculated to serve the interests of the country as well as those of your district, I trust you will do me the honour of electing me your representative in Parliament.

1. I am in favour of Secular Education, being the only system, in my opinion, adapted to the requirements of a mixed community like ours. I shall therefore, if elected, support the Public Schools Act in its integrity, but that integrity will not be in the slightest degree impaired by dealing liberally with all classes of schools protected by the Act.

2. I am opposed to the re-opening of the question of State-aid. Still I would not refuse to grant some assistance from the public Treasury to clergymen labouring in sparsely-peopled districts. But this should be determined by the amount subscribed in such districts, and the number of their several populations. Any money expended on the moral elevation of people, particularly in the districts referred to, where spiritual influences are few, I hold to be well expended.

3. I strongly disapprove of the Ad Valorem Duties, not only because I am a Free Trader, but because I have had sufficient experience of those duties to be convinced that they are commercially repressive, unequal in their incidence, and demoralising to the mercantile community.

4. Simultaneous railway extension, North, South, and West, will command my earnest support; at the same time I will do all in my power to procure good roads, more especially in districts which, like yours, gain no direct advantage from railways.

5. I would support retrenchment in the Public Service; but retrenchment of an equitable and impartial character, while taking due precautions to maintain the efficiency of the Service. I think considerable saving may be effected by reorganising the great departments and abolishing useless offices.

6. I will vote for the Abolition of Postage on Newspapers, deeming the amount received inconsiderable as a source of revenue, while the restriction it places on the inhabitants of rural districts obtaining political information, through the only medium by which it can reach them, I hold to be impolitic, and against the liberal spirit of the age.

7. The present Land Laws are, in my opinion, well adapted to the requirements of the country. The principle of Free Selection is based on a foundation that cannot be shaken—the declared will of the people. At the same time I would support such amendments as would reconcile the interests of the conditional purchaser and the pastoral tenant of the Crown. On this important point I will reserve further explanation until I have the pleasure of meeting you.

8. The present Distillation Laws are unsuited to the circumstances of the colony, and I should be prepared to give my support to any reform of them calculated to develope the sugar-growing resources of your district.

These being my views on the most important questions affecting the colony generally, I have now only to state with what zeal and assiduity I will attend to your local wants. I shall be ever ready to press your requirements in the proper quarters, and I promise to study your interests with care and diligence. You have strong claims on the consideration of Parliament in two important particulars; namely, rendering your rivers navigable as high as possible, and giving you good roads. Although you pay for the formation of the railways, you do not (as before hinted) directly participate in the benefits they confer. You are, therefore, in common justice, entitled to have some equivalent advantage conferred on you.

Trusting, Gentlemen, you will give this frank and clear expression of my views your thoughtful consideration, and hoping your suffrages will enable me to render honest and independent service to my native country,

I am, your obedient servant,
R. B. SMITH.

I am, Gentlemen,
Faithfully yours,

Vickery's Chambers, November 26, 1869.

TO THE CITIZENS OF MACQUARIE WARD.

GENTLEMEN,—Having been requested by a number of influential citizens to come forward as a Candidate at the ensuing election, I have much pleasure in complying, and beg to state my views with reference to various topics of the deepest interest to the citizens generally.

An abundant and permanent supply of pure water to the city is of the very first importance, and whatever steps may be taken by the Government in regard to the recent report of the Water Commission, I think it highly desirable that the City Council should forthwith adopt measures to prevent the incessant waste of water at Botany. At a very moderate estimate a quantity equal to the consumption of the city flows into the sea.

I should support any improved system by which our sewage might be UTILIZED, instead of being, as at present, poured into our beautiful harbour, to its manifest injury.

House property having materially depreciated in value I think there should be a new assessment. The rates now charged I consider most oppressive, and the mode in which they are levied, inequitable and unjust.

The establishment of a CATTLE MARKET in or adjacent to the city would, in my opinion, be highly advantageous to the public generally.

A FISH MARKET has been talked of for many years,—the question, however, is still in abeyance. In this respect, as in many others, we are sadly behind our Southern neighbours.

I am strongly in favour of the establishment of PUBLIC BATHS, such as I have seen in London and other cities.

A very large sum is annually lost to the Corporation owing to their not having the like power to tax UNOCCUPIED LANDS as the suburban municipalities. For 12 or 13 years this anomalous state of things has existed, and, in my opinion, should at once be put a stop to.

Last, though not least in importance, is the question of our already enormous and ever increasing CITY DEBT. The interest thereon amounts to ABOUT £20,000 (TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS ANNUALLY).

Under these circumstances, I think, gentlemen, that a slight infusion of NEW BLOOD is most desirable, and in fact that ANY change would be attended with beneficial results.

If you should be pleased to elect me, I pledge myself to devote my time and attention to the interests of your ward and the general advancement of this my native city; and remain, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,
BEN. PALMER.

THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA.
MARAVILLA COCOA.
Sole proprietors,
TAYLOR BROTHERS,
London.

The Cocoa (or Cacao) of Maravilla is the true Theobroma of Linnæus. Cocoa is indigenous to South America, of which Maravilla is a favoured portion. Taylor, Brothers, having secured the exclusive supply of this unrivalled cocoa, have, by the skilful application of their soluble principle and elaborate machinery, produced what is so undeniably the perfection of prepared cocoa, that it has not only secured the preference of homœopaths and cocoa-drinkers generally, but many, who had hitherto not found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocoa as their constant beverage for breakfast, luncheon, &c.

"A SUCCESS UNPRECEDENTED."

See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1868.

"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For Homœopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage."

Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor, Brothers' original Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

The Susannah Cuthbert (s.) crossed the Clarence bar at 11 a.m. on Tuesday; arrived at Port Macquarie at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, where she took on board 40 female paupers for transmission to Sydney, being a portion of 120 who are to be sent here; left Port Macquarie at 11 a.m. on Thursday, and arrived in Sydney at 2 p.m. on Friday. Fresh S. and W. winds prevailed during the passage. Her cargo consists of 700 bags maize, 50 bales wool, 6 coops fowls, 20 pigs, 10 cases eggs, 30 hides, and 10 tons sugar, the last-named item being from Port Macquarie.

The Auckland (s.) left Auckland on November 19th at 4 p.m., rounded North Cape at 8 30 p.m. on 20th, passed Three Kings at 9 p.m., entered Port Jackson at 11 30 a.m. on 26th, and arrived at the Company's wharf at 0 30 p.m. Experienced moderate winds, veering from S.E. to N.E., until the 25th instant, when it blew a strong gale from the westward, lasting till 10 p.m., when it moderated; the remainder of the passage, fresh south-westerly winds and fine weather. About 5 p.m. on 24th passed a three-masted schooner, standing to the eastward.

H.M.S. Blanche sailed from Wellington for the Fijis on the 13th instant.

A fine new iron clipper ship named the Vancouver, arrived yesterday from Liverpool after an excellent passage of eighty-nine days. This vessel is now on her first voyage, is of very superior build, being classed for 20 years, and fitted with all the recent improvements. She has on board 2000 tons of general merchandise, including a very large quantity of iron and salt, but although a deep laden ship, and contending against much light weather, she has proved by her passage out that she has sailing qualities of no mean character. We are indebted to Captain Dodd, her commander, for the following items respecting her outward trip. The Vancouver passed Tuscar on 29th August, and crossed the Equator on the 23rd September, in longitude 18 W. She carried an excellent S.E. trade, which enabled her to reach the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope on the 16th October, 48 days out. She made her easting on a parallel of longitude 45 S., the winds being light and variable, and not of such a character as is usually experienced. She came south of Van Diemen's Land, the south-west cape being passed on the 16th instant, 79 days out; and since that date she has experienced much vexatious detention from the prevalence of north-easterly winds. The ship is in first-class order, and comes to the consignment of Messrs. Lorimer, Marwood, and Rome.

Omitted in the imports per City of Sydney: 300 boxes tinplates, 372 bundles iron, 11 bales woolpacks, T. Nossiter and Co.

The Helen Macgregor (s.), left Grafton on Wednesday, 24th, at 6 a.m., and crossed the Bar at daylight on Thursday. Experienced light westerly winds throughout the passage. Passed the Agnes Irving (s.) off the Manning bight, and schooner Sarah Nicholson ten miles south of Port Macquarie; passed Port Stephens at 7 a.m. on Friday, and arrived in Sydney at 5 30 p.m. same day. She brings up 880 bags maize, 15 bales wool, 200 bunches bananas, 11 hides, 1 cask tallow, 1 case honey, 1 case eggs, and sundries.

The Florence Irving (s.), left Brisbane at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday; rounded Cape Moreton at 10 30 p.m.; passed Cape Byron at 9 15 a.m., and Smoky Cape 10.30 p.m. on Wednesday; Seal Rocks 11 a.m., Port Stephens 3 30 p.m. on Thursday; arriving at Sydney at 3 a.m. on Friday. Experienced variable winds and unsettled weather to Seal Rocks, thence to Newcastle strong westerly gales, the remainder moderate and fine. Passed the s.s. Egmont at 9 a.m. off Cape Hawke, and s.s. Thetis at 10 a.m., off Charlotte Head, on Thursday, and Agnes Irving, off Morah[?] Head, same day.

By telegram from Melbourne we learn that H.M.S. Liverpool, Phœbe, and Barrosa, forming a portion of the Flying Squadron, anchored in Hobson's Bay yesterday.

The You Yangs (s.) arrived at Twofold Bay at 3.40 p.m., and the Fanny Nicholson, from Hobart Town; and Isabella, for Launceston, sailed during the day, the wind as reported by telegram being at east.

The barque Schoolboy, from Melbourne to the Richmond River, put into this port yesterday morning.

The P. and O. Co.'s s. Malta cleared Port Phillip Heads, for Sydney, at 7 30 a.m. yesterday.

The steamer Blackbird left for Melbourne yesterday afternoon.

The barque Camilla arrived at Gladstone on the 4th instant for a cargo of cattle. Captain Baker reports:—"Left New Caledonia on the 23rd ultimo; experienced light winds and calms throughout the passage. In latitude 24 S., and longitude 159 17 E., passed over a shoal with only 9½ fathoms water, and extending from E. to W. about 10 miles; extent from N. to S. not known; shoal water was however, distinctly observed from the masthead, as far as the eye could reach." Captain Baker informs us that the existence of a shoal about the position of the one he passed over is known, but he is unaware whether it was ever sounded. He kept the lead going while crossing, and the depth given was the least obtained. North and south of the Camilla's track the depth has yet to be ascertained. The water was very clear, and the bottom distinctly visible, being composed of patches of white sand alternating with forests of marine vegetation.—Gladstone Observer, November 11.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1869.

THE issue proposed to be tried involving the charges of the VICAR-GENERAL against the Council of Education is a very fair one. It is raised by men in their respective spheres too distinguished to shrink from a challenge. It is not in reference to the nature of the Act of Parliament that the question now is mooted. We are perfectly well aware that the theory of education, as held by Mr. SHEEHY and gentlemen of his profession, is not, and cannot, be adopted in a British colony. He is not so unreasonable as to expect that the ideal of his Church more than that of any other, should be carried out by the intervention of the secular power. On the other hand, we have always maintained that it would be most unrighteous to make the secular power instrumental in a hostile design for or against any sect, or for the perversion of the faith of children. That there may be incidental difficulties in the working out of an educational system, and that in connection with this there may be sometimes an apparent departure from the fair construction of a common right, we have no need to dispute. It is only to say that the agents and instruments of any and every system are liable to forgetfulness, to passion, to perversion, and that they are not always men of integrity whose line of conduct would bear an honest scrutiny. But it is useless to deal with abuse as if it were proper to any system. The Educational Scheme in vogue in this colony has respected in a very high degree the religious preferences of the people. It is true that those who choose to have schools entirely separate, and to manage them upon their own Denominational plan, have not the same facilities in the same form as Public schools. This, however, is to object rather against the principle of the Public Education Act than to the mode of carrying it out. To give exactly the same support to schools of a Denominational character as may be afforded to those for the public at large would be a double advantage. But very large concessions are made to the Denominations who, besides the assistance they obtain from the State, are in possession of resources which were originally in a large measure derived from the common funds and property of the people.

The question at issue, we repeat, is not whether the bill is fair in its provisions, or whether, if carried out in its integrity, it is of a nature to satisfy the just expectations of any portion of the people, but simply whether the administration is in harmony with the bill itself?—whether there are flagrant and notorious departures from its prescriptions and provisions?—whether there is a strained and irregular action on the part of the Council?—whether the members of the Council have acted with honesty as between the public and the Act. These are points raised by the VICAR-GENERAL, and in regard to which Mr. PARKES demands examples. There can be nothing more fair than this request; and certainly if it shall be found that the Council of Education has wilfully and deliberately departed from its position, and strained the law in favour of one party as against another, a strong case would be made out for its condemnation.

Our difficulty in receiving this adverse view somewhat depends upon the position and character of persons who have administered the bill. These are partly men of political responsibility, and partly men of social standing, who, distinct from politics, have a high reputation. It is possible, of course, that some over-ruling and imperious spirit may guide the Council in its determinations; but those who suffer from its injustice can easily point out in what way. No disposition would be felt, we are quite sure, on the part of the public, to screen from just odium a clandestine departure from the spirit and requirements of the Act itself. There is, perhaps, in some quarters considerable antipathy to Mr. PARKES, as the person who had charge of the Public Schools Bill in its passage through the House, and who is often made responsible for all its deficiencies and excesses. But this ought not to deprive him of the right of appeal against a very serious impeachment by a very high authority. There are accusers whose imputations no man is required, as a matter of duty, to refute; and there are persons whose positions are so elevated that they cannot be asked to defend themselves unless such be their choice. But neither of these conditions can be stated of the gentlemen who have joined issue—Mr. SHEEHY in the accusation, Mr. PARKES in the defence. The public will look with anxiety for the categorical statement of those grievances which are summed up in a general design to pervert the Act of Parliament, and to abuse a sacred trust. We have had quite enough of random charges scattered among the people, creating discontent and exciting jealousy, and it is time that impartial men, who hold somewhat of a neutral position, should insist that those who are in a condition to make accusations, and those who are fairly liable to them, shall plead, and that the public may come to a sound and final verdict.

We do not think it necessary to do more than notice remarks in the letter of Mr. SHEEHY as to the spirit of this journal. We have never professed to be otherwise than Protestant; but so Protestant as to have a fair regard for the equal rights of the whole community—to vindicate men unjustly accused, whether of the Roman Catholic or the Protestant faith—and to resist every encroachment, on either side, which seems to compromise the liberty or the tranquillity of the people of this country. This we have done on many occasions, for many long years. We shall not, by any injustice on the part of Roman Catholic or Protestant partisans, be diverted from this policy which we have pursued upon the most solemn conviction of duty and right. There has never appeared in our columns a single line that could be construed by the most sensitive Roman Catholic gentleman into a slight on the ARCHBISHOP, or anything wanting in that respect which is due to his eminent virtues. The insinuation to the contrary is hardly within the fair limits of party warfare.

We are glad to find from the declarations and speeches of many of the most distinguished candidates for Parliamentary representation that the opposition to the Public Schools Act is greatly softened, and that the disposition to give it a fair trial is pretty general among politicians. If there are any points which admit of adjustment, or difficulties that can be smoothed down by reasonable concession, such will be the desire of every wise and good man. The Public Schools Act will not, however, be altered in this colony unless those who are satisfied with its working are driven by its enemies to fall in with the secular scheme which, in our opinion, would be open to very strong objections.

THE GOVERNMENT, THE ELECTIONS, AND THE SUPREME COURT.—It was yesterday stated publicly, by his Honor the Chief Justice, that the Government having—not only without the consent of the Judges, but without consulting them—appointed both Court-rooms to be polling places on Friday, the 3rd of December, it would be quite impossible to hold any sittings on that day. They (the Judges) had communicated with the Returning-officer, but found the arrangements could not be changed. They had also considered whether it would be possible by sitting in other parts of the building, or even at Darlinghurst, to go on with the business, but found that it could not be done. Besides the difficulty of finding any fitting place to sit in in that building, the noise and excitement would probably be such as would render it impossible to proceed; and to go to Darlinghurst would be to proceed too far from the records of the Court and for the convenience of all parties concerned. It would be necessary, therefore, for the Bar to take cognisance of the fact that there would be no sitting in any branch of the Court's jurisdiction on the day he had named.

FIRE AT THE BOREHOLE.—Yesterday morning a fire occurred at the A. A. Company's Pit through the sparks from the furnace lodging on the framework. The fire-engines promptly arrived and prevented the flames from doing any serious damage.—Correspondent.

LICENSED VICTUALLERS' ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of this Association was held, yesterday evening, in a hall attached to the Craven Hotel, Pitt-street. The chair was occupied by the landlord, Mr. John Perry, the President of the Association. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the chairman said, that on that evening—Tuesday last, it was determined that a meeting should be held to consider to whom support should be given as candidates for Legislative honours. Since that meeting, three gentlemen had waited upon him, and he had then told them that they could write to the committee of the Association stating their views. He had that day received a letter from Mr George King's committee, suggesting the propriety of a deputation from their number, waiting upon that gentleman, as they had every confidence that his enlightened commercial views would fully satisfy them. They were met to take steps for the protection of their interests as Licensed Victuallers, and for the upholding of their rites as citizens. During the term of office of the Martin-Parkes Ministry, they had an amended Publican's bill before the House, which was placed in the hands of Mr Eagar, who had promised to support it, but from him it was passed to his colleagues, and the result was, that at the end of the session nothing had been done. He had been unable to find a copy of the bill. Aldermen Steel promised to support the Publicans' Act with all his power, as well as any measure which might tend to their interests. Being a publican, and a member of the association, he knew their wants, and was therefore better qualified than others to represent them. If there were any measures which concerned the association, and he a member of the Assembly, it would be his first object to call a meeting of their committee to consider it, and by whose majority he would be led. The members of the Association having heard what Mr. Steel had to say, promised unanimously to give him their support. Messrs. Madden, Byrne, and others addressed the meeting, which was adjourned. A meeting will be called for Tuesday next, when the matter of deputations of the committee to candidates for East and West Sydney, to ascertain their views, will be called.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—An accident of a serious character occurred about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, on board the Hero, steamship, lying at the Grafton Wharf. The boatswain, named George Nicholas, a young man about 27 years of age, while engaged at some work on the poop, fell into the hold, a distance of twenty-four feet. When picked up it was found that he had been severely cut in several places about the head, and that his right arm had been broken above the wrist. A number of his fellow seamen procured a stretcher and conveyed him through the streets to the Infirmary, where he was received, and seen by Dr. Schuette. Yesterday evening, Nicholas was sensible, but in a state of much debility.

GYMNASTIC AND MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.—The large hall of the Sydney School of Arts was yesterday evening filled with a brilliant assemblage to witness the feats of strength and agility displayed by the members of "The Gymnasium" attached to the University Hall, 246, Castlereagh-street. There was also some excellent music, vocal and instrumental, performed by the members and two or three of their friends, and by Alderson's Band, whose services had been engaged for the occasion. The "bars" were fixed on the platform, and other portions of the gymnastic apparatus such as the double trapeze and "the stirrups" depended from the skylights, where they had been firmly fixed, so that every one present had an excellent view of the graceful and daring performances of the gymnasts. After an overture by the band, there was an exercise on the parallel bars; then followed a song by a gentleman amateur; then there was some skilful fencing with foils by two well known gentlemen who are officers in the Highland Brigade. There was also a fine display of agility and strength by the "stirrups." The display by the professor was a very finished and clever performance, and was enthusiastically encored. The second part consisted of exercises on the horizontal bar, exercises with the Indian clubs, and a very fine performance on the double trapeze by an amateur and the instructor attached to the gymnasium. Some of the feats were novel, and drew forth repeated plaudits. Most of the gymnastic exercises were rendered with apparent ease, and with a gracefulness which could only result from superior training and persevering practice. This entertainment was the third given by the members of the gymnasium. Two were given for the amusement of their friends, and one as a complimentary benefit to their talented instructor.

WE are requested to call attention to Bradley, Newton, and Lamb's sale this day, at half-past 10 o'clock, sharp, of furniture and pianofortes, &c., under bill of sale. At 11 o'clock, elegant household furniture and effects of H. Vos[?], Esq., removed from his residence to the rooms. At 12 o'clock, camphorwood trunks, China matting, &c.—ADV.

MACQUARIE WARD.—A numerously-attended meeting of the electors of Macquarie Ward was held last night at Peaman's[?] Golden Fleece, King-street. Mr. J. Hart was voted to the chair; and, after a few remarks in favour of the candidate, introduced Mr. Alderman Macintosh to the meeting, who was very cordially received. He said that, coming before them to ask to be re-elected, it was necessary that he should explain some of his proceedings since last elected. At that time the water question was the most important matter engaging public attention. Residing at that time near the Botany Works, he gave as much attention to the subject as he possibly could, both in his place in Council and through the Press; and he thought that he might fairly claim that the attention of Parliament was drawn to it, to a great extent, from his exertions. Botany was a most valuable watershed for Sydney at present, and was capable, for nearly all the year, of supplying three to four million gallons per day; but unfortunately, when there was least water at Botany, there was the greatest necessity for a larger supply in Sydney, and, from the nature of the soil, badly adapted for reservoirs. Manufactures dependent upon a good water supply had been springing up, and the danger of not having a continual supply retarded others. Sydney, to enable it to progress required six times the quantity that could be obtained from Botany, and from as high a source or level as our capital would enable us to obtain it, both on account of its purity and the force or head of water to be obtained. Water from a high level would be valuable, if in abundance, as a motive power to drive all machinery used for domestic manufactures. When it became the will of the majority of Aldermen that we should have a new Town Hall, he to the utmost of his ability aided that movement, so as to secure success. He thought that he might also fairly claim credit for his exertions for the establishment of a Free Library so soon as it has been done. He had given his aid to the establishment of fish markets and public baths, and he had given considerable attention to the basis upon which cattle markets could be established in connection with the Municipal Council. The equitable removal of all the ugly encroachments upon the streets had, and if again elected would continue to have his strenuous support. He had supported the introduction of a bill into the Assembly to tax vacant lands within the city. He had moved a resolution in the Council that ratepayers should only pay one half the amount for flagging, the City Fund bearing the other half; and that the Corporation should keep the flagging in repair in all cases when done in the first instance by ratepayers. The attention that he had given to the sewerage question had resulted in an amendment of the system as far as practical. Great difficulties were in the way from the small rise or fall of the tide, and so much of the site of the city being within forty feet of the level of the tidal flow, and five miles was the distance of the nearest outlet where it could be taken. The utilisation of the sewage was also a difficult question. The demand for the manure that could be so obtained was so small from the barrenness of the land near Sydney, and the richness of land at a short distance where there is soil almost in a virgin state. The beautifying of our public parks had at all times received his support, as also had the Exhibition-building intended for the Agricultural Association. The eight-hour labour question had cropped up in the Municipal elections for the first time, and he might say that he was one of the early supporters of that movement, and had always in his private capacity practised it, and he was now doing so where he had some improvements being carried out. As a representative, should any petition be presented to him by the ratepayers in favour of the movement it should have his support; but as a principle, he believed all Corporation work, as far as possible, should be done by contract. The doing of work by contract had at all times his support. A sectarian feeling had been brought to bear against him in this election, on account of his taking the chair at a meeting in favour of Mr. Parkes, approving of his perseverance in the matter of the Public Schools Act. He explained the matter at the time, that he consented only to take the chair by the pledge from the promoters that they belonged to no society intended to throw discredit on any other sect. His services as an alderman had extended for eight years, and he could assert that he had not been absent eight times during that time, and then only on account of illness or absence from Sydney. It was only by close attention to the duties that an alderman could become useful. He might also state that no ratepayer within the city had ever applied to him in vain regarding civic matters. He had always, at all times and places, given them his aid in matters which he considered for the benefit of the city. But he would not hold the aldermanic seat unless he was left free to exercise his judgment on matters as they came before him. He would be no tool to any person or clique of persons, but he must be allowed to say no to what he did not approve. One of the last important resolutions he moved and passed in the Council was that £3000 should be laid aside each year out of the current revenue of the City Fund to redeem our debentures, and he also moved a resolution that the Corporation debt with the Government should be brought before the Government and Parliament, with the view to its equitable adjustment. The sewers, for which it was incurred, were constructed on a bad principle and at ruinous prices, and it was only by arbitration that the matter could be adjusted satisfactorily. Should he again be honoured by the majority of votes on the day of election, his past career would be an earnest of his future conduct. Mr. Cargo spoke in favour of the candidature of Alderman Macintosh, and he hoped that the electors would spare no exertions to secure his triumphant return. He begged to move,—"That Mr. Macintosh was a fit and proper person to represent Macquarie Ward." Mr. Monagan seconded the resolution, which was supported by Mr. Lawler and Mr. Hatfield, who spoke of Mr. Macintosh's manly and independent conduct in the City Council, and of the many improvements he had had effected during the last eight years. The resolution was unanimously agreed to. Mr. Macintosh expressed his gratification at the confidence and approval of the electors. The meeting then formed themselves into a committee to secure Mr. Macintosh's re-election. A vote of thanks was given to the chairman, with acclamation.

DENISON WARD.—A meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Alderman Murphy was held last night, at Sander's Quarryman's Arms Hotel, Pyrmont. There was a very numerous assemblage, and the chair was occupied by Mr. George Stabler. The audience were collected in the street, and Alderman Murphy addressed them from the balcony, setting forth his past services during the four years he had sat in the Council, and all that had been done for the ward in that period. He pointed out that though complaints were sometimes made as to certain places being neglected, the alderman was not in fault, because the wants of the ratepayers were not made known to him. It was their duty to state their grievances to the alderman, who could not be expected to know what they wanted unless he was told. He would defy anyone to say he had not attended to every complaint which had been made to him, or that he had not done his utmost to obtain what was right for the ward. He did not wish to be re-elected under false pretences. If his actions and opinions were disapproved of, let him be rejected. He did not want the ratepayers to vote otherwise than conscientiously. He hoped none of his friends would say a word against Mr. Barlow, who was a worthy man, and one fit to represent this ward. If Mr. Barlow was elected, he (Mr. Murphy) would accept defeat with a good grace, and be as good friends with Mr. Barlow as ever he had been. He thanked the electors for the support they had pledged to him, and stated he would do all in his power to serve their interests. In answer to questions put by certain ratepayers in the crowd, Mr. Murphy said he was in favour of the eight-hours' system. He had himself worked fourteen hours a day, but he thought eight hours was quite long enough in a climate like this. He also said he was an advocate for the formation of a new street one hundred feet wide from the Post Office up to the junction of the Parramatta and Glebe Roads; but he was afraid that would not be accomplished in his time. He also thought a good wharf should be built at the end of John-street. He also stated that he was in favour of the erection of public baths at Pyrmont; but he pointed out that the ratepayers who desired these improvements should memorialise the Council upon the subject and thus strengthen the hands of their alderman. He had been very regular in his attendance at the Council meetings, but for some reason or other his speeches there were never reported. He did not care for that, but only mentioned the matter in order to prevent the ratepayers fancying he gave silent votes upon important questions. He never gave a silent vote. He stated that Mary-street had not been carried out in consequence of Mr. Holt's opposition, and that the Council had to pay £50 to the contractors for breach of contract. Mr. Pritchard then moved that Mr. Murphy possessed the confidence of the ratepayers of Denison Ward, and in doing so said that Mr. Barlow had stated that he did not intend to continue the contest, but would retire from the field. Mr. Tideman seconded the motion, which was put and carried almost unanimously. Three cheers were then given for Mr. Murphy, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman.

PHILLIP WARD: MEETING OF MR. THOMAS J. BOWN'S SUPPORTERS.—A meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Thomas J. Bown, in his candidature for the representation of Phillip Ward in the City Municipal Council, was held on Thursday evening, in Mrs. Cowell's public-house, at the corner of Pitt and Goulburn streets. The chair was taken by Dr. Bell, of Pitt-street, who after reading the advertisement by which the meeting had been convened, said it would be as well for them to expedite the business, so that the electors might be enabled to attend other meetings, such as the one of the electors of East Sydney, at the Emu Inn, in George-street. He had only had the privilege of knowing Mr. Bown for a short time prior to his departure for England. From what he knew of him, however, he firmly believed that he was the proper person to represent them, and he would support him on his merits. They had had for their representatives in the Council a number of "muffs," and it was now their duty to look out for a sensible, practical man. That man, he believed, they had found in Mr. Bown. He had great pleasure in introducing that gentleman to the electors. Mr. Bown then addressed the electors at considerable length. He had just arrived from England, and from his being absent in that country he could not be expected to know a great deal about the manner in which for the last three years matters had been carried on in the City Council. Before he had set foot in this colony he had received from the electors of Phillip Ward a large and respectable requisition, and he thought it proper to give it consideration before he consented to stand. It was so flattering that he could not but comply with it (Hear, hear.) He was an advocate for a cheap water rate (hear, hear), and for a better principle in connection with its supply. He had been sorry to see before he left the colony that there had been a great waste of water, which might have been rendered useful: but he did not know how the matter at present stood. If elected, he would give his hearty co-operation to the other aldermen to have the water rate lessened. He had, while in the mother country, been glad to see that the expense formerly incurred by the citizens for gas had been much lessened. (Hear, hear.) Before he left the colony, for fifteen years he had made the cheapening of gas one of his principles. At one time it cost the citizens of Sydney about 18s. per thousand feet. It now cost somewhere about 8s. 6d., which sum he (Mr. Bown) believed to be still capable of reduction. In England—or more strictly speaking in London—the cost was from 3s. 9d. to 4s. 6d. Even after making allowances for the differences between the cost of labour and coal in England and New South Wales, he believed that the gas rate here might yet be reduced 10 or 15 per cent. They had also had to pay for their service pipes and their metres, while the cost ought to have been defrayed by the company which supplied the gas. He was given to understand that the gasworks here were under the control of a company. Now he might say that he was in favour of Corporation Gasworks. (Hear, hear.) He had no doubt but that if they were under the control of the City Council they would be able to obtain their gas at a much cheaper rate, and that the change of proprietorship would prove a great boon. He was in favour of a new and improved system of sewerage. He would endeavour to lower the various expenses as far as he could, so long as it was compatible with the improvement of the city and their ward in particular, so that their rates might be light. (Hear, hear.) If elected, he would do his best for their interests and spend as much of his time on them as he possibly could. In conclusion, he would say that if at any time there were obstructions or nuisances in the city prejudicial to the comfort and health of the inhabitants he would endeavour to get it removed. (Hear, hear.) While in England and on the Continent he had seen many things which might be adopted here with advantage, and these he would advocate. An elector asked if he was in favour of the eight-hour system. Mr. Bown replied in the affirmative. Mr. Goold moved that Mr. Bown is a fit and proper person to represent the ward. Mr. Turton moved an amendment in favour of Mr. Hurley, but it was not supported. Mr. Goold's motion was seconded, and, with the exception of one dissentient voice, carried unanimously. A committee was then formed; and after a vote of thanks had been accorded to Dr. Bell for his services in the chair, the meeting came to a close.—Last evening, a numerous and enthusiastic meeting of Mr. Bown's supporters was held at Mr. Leonards', the Royal Oak Inn, Abercrombie-street, at which several members were added to the working committee.

ART-UNION PRIZES.—A number of prizes allotted to subscribers in New South Wales, at the recent drawing of the Art-Union of London, are now on view at Mr. J. L. Sherriff's, Wynyard-square. They consist of a bronze model of the Nelson column in Trafalgar-square, which has fallen to the lot of Mr. V. W. Giblin; a statuette of the Wood-nymph, to Mr. C. Moore, of Wellington; and busts of the Princess of Wales and of Apollo, to Mr M. C. Stephen and Mr. H. C. Dangar. The last three models are in Parian marble, and all are elegant and beautifully finished works of art. A fifth prize, for Mr. J. Dodds, consisting of an oil-painting of the value of £40, is shortly expected to arrive. These prizes are, of course, in addition to the customary engraving or other work of art which is yearly issued to all subscribers of one guinea.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

MR. EAGAR and Mr. W. Speer have issued their addresses to the electors of West Sydney, and are therefore fairly embarked in the contest. For some days past a requisition to Dr. Lang from the same constituency has been in preparation. The signatures, it is said, already number something like a thousand. Dr. Lang has stated his intention of retiring from the political arena, but his admirers seem to think that he will be induced to come forward again. Mr. David Buchanan has published his address to the electors of East Sydney, and the Northumberland constituency are therefore not likely to have him as a candidate. Some steps have been taken towards canvassing East Sydney on behalf of Sir James Martin, and as committee rooms, &c., have been engaged for him, we may infer that he intends to stand for that electorate, and that he will not go to Newcastle.

Mr. Samuel, the Colonial Treasurer, has addressed the electors of Orange.

Mr. Forster, the Secretary for Lands, has published a valedictory address to the electors of the Hastings, and has sought the suffrages of the St. Leonards constituency, where a tough contest is anticipated between him and Mr. Tunks.

In another column will be found a requisition to Messrs. Farnell and Byrnes to stand again for Parramatta. Those gentlemen have both consented to come forward.

Mr. R. B. Smith has issued his address to the electors of the Hastings.

Mr. William R. Collins is a candidate for the representation of the Wollombi, in opposition to Mr. Eckford and Mr. Lyall Scott.

Mr. F. N. O'Brien and Mr. C. Cleveland are candidates for the representation of Northumberland.

Mr. Macleay has addressed the electors of the Murrumbidgee, his old electorate.

Mr. W. H. Suttor stands again for Bathurst, and Mr. J. B. Suttor for East Macquarie.

Mr. J. F. Burns is opposed in his candidature for the Hunter by Mr. George Vindin, of Maitland, who has come forward.

Mr. Stimpson, who has offered himself to the electors of Carcoar for re-election, is opposed by the Rev. Mr. Burke.

Mr. T. Sullivan and Mr. M. R. Templeton have issued addresses to the electors of Canterbury.

Mr. J. W. Wilshire has stated his intention of standing for Illawarra. Mr. John Stewart and Mr. James Osborne are also candidates.

Mr. C. Campbell has issued his address to the electors of Queanbeyan.

At Shoalhaven, the friends of Mr. Goold are working hard to secure his return. It is generally supposed, however, that his chance of success is not great, especially as his accident prevents him from engaging in a personal canvass. Mr. T. Garrett is in the field, and canvassing the electorate.

We are authorised to state that Mr. R. Hill is again a candidate for the representation of Canterbury.

Mr. Parkes has issued his address to the electors of Kiama, and stated that he cannot visit the district before the nomination day. Mr. S. W. Gray, of the Tweed River, will oppose Mr. Parkes, and started for Kiama last night to make a personal canvass.

We take the following from the Kiama Independent of the 25th instant:—"Some of Mr. Parkes's friends and supporters met, according to intention announced in our last, at the Steam Packet Inn, on the evening of Thursday, 18th instant, for the purpose of taking such steps as might appear desirable to secure that gentleman as a candidate for the electorate. A brief requisition was adopted, and several copies prepared during the following morning were distributed among a number of gentlemen favourable to Mr. Parkes, for the collection of signatures. During the latter part of Friday, and on Saturday, though the weather on this day was wet, the signatures of the well-affected were collected in considerable numbers. Most of the lists, but not all were returned on Monday morning, and dispatched by that day's mail with some 400 names. Mr. Parkes, who had probably concluded that his candidature would be taken as a matter of course, had not waited for the requisition, but had written an address to the electors of Kiama which was received on Sunday, and which we publish in the present issue."

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.—Owing to the press of advertisements in this morning's issue, we have been compelled to postpone the insertion of our usual commercial intelligence.

MR. ROBERT CAMPBELL, FOR BRISBANE WARD.—Yesterday evening, a meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Robert Campbell, of the Commercial Wharf, was held at Mr. J. A. Robinson's inn (Forbes Hotel), at the corner of King and York streets, at 8 o'clock. Several influential residents of the ward were present—citizens who desired to secure the election of Mr. Campbell as an alderman for that portion of the city. Mr. J. G. Conner was called to the chair, and opened the proceedings. It was moved by Mr. T. Walsh, and seconded by Mr. M'Caffery,—"That Mr. Robert Campbell (of the Commercial Wharf) was a fit and proper person to represent Brisbane Ward, as an alderman, in the City Council." Mr. Coulter stated that he had every reason to believe that Mr. Campbell did not intend to be a candidate, because that gentleman would not oppose Mr. Day. Mr. Walsh, nevertheless, declared that he had good grounds for his conviction that Mr. Robert Campbell would sit, if elected. The resolution moved was put and carried. A committee was appointed to make all the necessary arrangements to secure the return of Mr. Campbell.

BUSHRANGING ON THE CLARENCE.—A bushranger, supposed to be Ward, better known as Thunderbolt, stuck up Mr. Houison, road superintendent's camp on Monday, the 15th, taking away a needle-gun, a valuable thoroughbred horse, and some other articles. He also levied black mail upon several settlers in the neighbourhood, having been hanging about in the vicinity for several days.

AMUSEMENTS.—The Prince of Wales Opera House is nightly the resort of a large number of pleasure seekers, for whom Formosa seems to possess attractions. The play has now been performed so often, that everything goes like a piece of mechanism. The principals in the cast have received so much applause, that recalls before the curtain at the close of every act may be looked upon as a part of the programme. Several good farces have been given as the afterpieces. Formosa is to be continued for some nights longer.—The performances of the Spanish acrobats, at the Victoria Theatre, are highly spoken of by all who have witnessed the daring feats which they so dexterously accomplish. They close their engagement to-night, consequently those who have not yet patronised their entertainment have only another opportunity of seeing the cleverest troupe that has visited Sydney.—The Adelphi Theatre, York-street, opens this evening under the direction of Miss Rosa Cooper. Mr. Wilson, acting manager. The interior of the house has been very much improved, and Messrs. Wilson and Habbe's artistic skill has been displayed in the painting of a neat drop-curtain; subject—the Bay of Naples. Mr. Charles Young is engaged as leading comedian.

TRINITY MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.—An entertainment was given last night in the Trinity Schoolroom, Lower Fort-street, by the members of the above named association. The programme was made up of songs, recitations, &c., and the evening's entertainment was brought to a close about 10 o'clock, by the company singing two verses of the National Anthem. Mr. Thomas Summerbell gave every satisfaction as chairman.

REPRESENTATION OF THE GLEBE.

MR. G. W. ALLEN'S MEETING.

A VERY numerous and enthusiastic meeting of the electors of the Glebe took place last evening, at Mr. Simpson's, Lady of the Lake Hotel, to hear Mr. G. W. Allen as a candidate for the representation of this electorate, express his political views. The proceedings were initiated in the large room of the hotel, but the audience increasing to some five or six hundred the larger portion of course outside, it was found necessary to address them from the window.

Mr. W. T. PINNEY, who was unanimously called to the chair, having read the public notice by which the meeting was convened, introduced the candidate. He said it had been frequently urged, and with considerable truth, that the first Parliament of New South Wales was the best the country had seen, and that it had gradually retrograded in character up to the present time; now it was for the electors to bring up its stature to what it was when it was first formed. (Cheers.) He was quite sure his hearers would agree with him that, in view of this object, the electors of the Glebe would be doing their part by supporting Mr. Allen—(cheers)—a gentleman well-known to those in this suburb, as well as to the electors in Balmain—a gentleman who wherever known was respected, a native of the soil, a man of large independent means, and a man of much tact, talent, and energy, which peculiarly fitted him for a place in the next Parliament. (Cheers.) It therefore devolved upon the electors to support him with might and main. There was no candidate at present in opposition, but they did not know how soon a rival might be in the field, so that it was their duty to afford Mr. Allen all the strength they had at their command, and to do their utmost to secure his return. He had frequently declined to stand for election, and now, after much solicitation, he had consented, it was for the electors to carry him triumphantly through every obstacle that might arise. Mr. Allen would go into the Assembly free and unfettered; he would belong to the tail of no party; and believing as he did that the broad lines of demarcation which in the old country had so widely separated parties should not exist here, in other words, that Whig and Tory should not be known, and taking as his motto "measures not men" he would be found to be one who would work hard for their interests. When they found a man of his character willing to serve them, there was that in the good sense of the electors of the Glebe as would assure his return against anyone else who might come into the field. (Cheers.)

Mr. GEORGE WIGRAM ALLEN (who was received with loud applause) said, I speak to-night under very great difficulty owing to a bad cold which will be observable from the hoarseness of my voice. Under any circumstances I should feel out of my element in addressing you on an occasion like this. I have never before attempted an election speech, or engaged publicly in matters of political concern, or given expression to my own views on public questions. I do not mean to say that I have not thought of these matters, and formed my opinion concerning them; this has been my habit through life, but I have not previously had opportunity or occasion for setting them forth in public. I can lay no claim to art in public speaking. I shall not therefore detain you at great length. Having hitherto kept free from all vexed questions of a political nature, I should not voluntarily have offered myself as a candidate to any constituency, and I have, as many of you know on other occasions, refused to allow myself to be nominated for this or any other electorate. On the dissolution of the late Parliament, I was urged by many friends to come forward, and again declined; but after having been waited upon by several electors, and received so large a requisition from both sections of the district, I felt I could no longer resist the solicitations of the electors. (Cheers.) I have, therefore, offered my services to you, but I fear they will not be so valuable as the chairman has so kindly and flatteringly represented. Still, whatever my ability, I will endeavour to use it for the benefit of this constituency, and in the advancement of the interest of the country at large. (Cheers.) It is now fitting that I should state the opinions I hold on the leading questions of the day. My political career may be said to be now commenced, and I have not to speak of what I have done, but how I propose to act and vote on the topics likely to be submitted for consideration. The first question is one on which I hold a strong and decided opinion,—namely, the desirability of upholding in its integrity the Public Schools Act. (Cheers.) Nothing can be of more importance or more deserving of our efforts than the promotion of the spread of education, as it was the surest basis of national prosperity and happiness; and especially in a country like this, with manhood suffrage, it is absolutely necessary. It has been wisely said that a well educated people can alone be a permanently free people. Every Public school system should provide for instruction in the ordinary branches of education, and whilst leaving out doctrinal or denominational teaching, should not neglect the inculcation of such religious and moral feelings as will fit the young to become worthy citizens and good members of society, in whatever station they may be. In order to effect this, there must be proper means of training teachers, and it was because, among other things, provision was made for this in the present Public Schools Act that I give it my cordial sanction, and I am quite sure in time it will receive the earnest support of all classes of the community. I may claim some right to offer an opinion on this subject, as for many years I held office as a member of the Board of National Education—associated with men of worth—I allude to the late Mr. J. H. Plunkett, the late Mr. Justice Therry, Sir Charles Nicholson, Mr. G. K. Holden, and Professor Smith, with whom I co-operated in working out a system of education in many respects the same as that now in existence. A large number of the schools at that time were as efficient as those now existing. I feel persuaded that almost every one of my present hearers cordially approves of the present Public school system—(Cheers)—and by the published addresses of candidates seeking election it would seem that the large majority give it their sanction, or, at any rate, will not attempt to interfere with it. The next topic to which I may advert is the question of State-aid. It now seemed the right thing for every candidate to say he disapproved of State-aid, or that he will take no step towards reviving it. Some of the remarks on the subject are rather amusing; for instance, there are those who seriously assert that they will not open a question "so happily settled by Parliament." Many of the gentlemen who thus express their views have been consistent opponents of State-aid, but a great many are known to have given it their strongest support on many occasions. I do not blame them for having changed their opinions, but rather rejoice in their conversion to what I believe to be right notions, and I take it as a favourable omen that the vexed question will not become a matter of difference in the forthcoming Parliament. I have always been opposed to the appropriation from the public revenue of any money for this purpose, and I shall not countenance any attempt to revive it. (Cheers.) Now as to ad valorem duties, with which every candidate is expected to deal. These imposts also of late appear to have become altogether unpopular, and it is not probable that their exaction will continue long. Each would-be member of Parliament is promising to do away with them. My opinion on the point is not of recent origin; I have always objected to them, for I believe by their agency the commerce of the country is greatly impeded, and its trade with the several Australian colonies largely diminished, while they at the same time encourage fraud and false dealing, and thus tend to demoralise the community. (Cheers.) They place the honest trader at a disadvantage in relation to the man of an opposite character or more elastic conscience. There are weighty objections to this system of taxation. A considerable portion of the legal claims of the Government never comes into the Treasury, the declared value of many importations being considerably below the true value; so that while the Government is thus defrauded the conscientious trader is injured, as he has to face the unfair competition in this way created. It discourages and restricts the trade of the port, and the property of the suburbs is coincident with that of Sydney. As a commercial city its prosperity diminishes or increases as restrictions are imposed upon or removed from the export or import of goods. In this view some advocate that it should be an entirely free port. Admitting that there is some weight in the argument, I do not desire to see such a policy adopted. I would rather that the revenue should be obtained by indirect than by direct taxation, and the simplest way of doing it is by Customs' duties; but it should be by fixed duties on specific articles. There are several commodities not included in the tariff which preceded the ad valorem duties, from which I think revenue might with justice be obtained. For instance, kerosene is an article on which a small tax might legitimately be imposed for the purpose of revenue only; its importation is considerable, and largely on the increase. A small duty per gallon would much assist the revenue. There were several other articles that might fairly and wisely be added to the tariff. The next subject I wish to allude to is that of immigration. One of the greatest disadvantages under which this colony at present labours, and which retards its prosperity in a large degree, is the want of a continuous influx of population, of men of a useful productive class. (Cheers.) We want men of some capital, and what is of equal good to the country, men of strong arms and willing hearts to labour—men who will form a home for themselves by their labour, or by that of others. We should if possible attract such men to our shores, and if our population is increased by the introduction of the right class of persons, who by their industry shall help to augment the colony's resources, the less difficulty we shall have as to our finances; the income of the colony will be largely increased, and instead of a growing deficit, we shall have an overflowing exchequer. The subject of railways is one demanding much consideration. In the absence of inland navigable rivers we require some other mode of easy communication with the interior, and I think the colony is at great disadvantage in this respect, as compared with our neighbours in Victoria. It is true that the country through which they constructed their lines presents no serious engineering difficulties, whilst we have had to contend with obstacles entailing enormous expenditure and great loss of time; but these have now been surmounted, and we have railway communication with Goulburn in the south, and I hope we shall shortly have the traffic opened to Bathurst in the west, and Murrurundi in the north. I think then the time has arrived for the Government to decide upon proceeding vigorously with one or other of these lines, leaving the rest in abeyance till one shall be carried so far as to be productive, directly or indirectly; and in choosing which that line should be I hold that the one likely to be of most importance to the colony is the Southern line. I think this should be pressed forward with the utmost means and labour at the command of the Government, till it has reached such a point that the storekeepers, traders, and producers can obtain supplies from Sydney rather than, as now in too many cases, from Melbourne. At present, not only does the Sydney merchant and importer lose a large part of the trade he might fairly expect to retain if the communication with the interior were easy and certain, but the income of the Government is greatly diminished by the loss of duty on taxable commodities. I am aware it has hitherto been considered unpopular to propose the extension of one line in preference to another, but whatever weight there may be in that idea, I hold the existing circumstances will justify the Government in vigorously pushing forward the Southern line—desirous, as we must be, to get back a large part of the trade that has gone to Victoria, or to retain that which remains to us. I shall be prepared to advocate the policy I have indicated, and would consent to borrow on the security of the public lands revenue sufficient money to complete the scheme with all possible speed, being convinced that when it is finished a large revenue will be derived from the working of the railway, and, in an indirect way, great benefits obtained by the country. (Cheers.) I notice in several of the candidates' addresses economy in the public expenditure is dwelt upon. I too am an advocate for proper economy in this respect, but I doubt whether it is to be brought about simply by a reduction of salaries. I believe that competent men should be well paid, and a fair equivalent of work required of them. I fear, however, there are too many incompetent persons in the public service, appointments being made from interest rather than from the merit and capabilities of the men. (Cheers.) If a reform were made in this respect, and all unnecessary offices were abolished, I think a considerable reduction might be made in the number employed. Any representative in Parliament can do little in this matter; the power is in the hands of the Ministers of the several departments; but one thing a member may do towards it—he may refrain from pressing into the Government service his friends and supporters. (Cheers.) I do not imply that there is not an influence that may not be legitimately exercised for the recommendation of competent persons, but even this should be kept within reasonable bounds. Now as to the land. I do not think the land law perfect, although I fully admit, and with gratification, the great amount of good that followed the passing of the last Act. Whatever amendments are made should have a tendency to encourage the settlement of industrious families, the expenditure on the land of their labour and capital, which is but another word for the accumulation or result of previous labour. This will give value to our waste lands. It is to labour we owe all we possess of value; without it we should be no better off than the savage; all the comforts and refinements of life being derived from it. In speaking of this, I do not confine myself to the labour of the hand only, although this comes more immediately under observation. The labour of the hand is not more productive than that of the mind; both must act in unison, the mind to contrive, the hand to execute. How much are we indebted to the former for those numberless inventions which have so wonderfully augmented the powers of man, and contributed to the supply of his wants in so large a degree. I would give facility for the settlement of hard-working, industrious persons, who have accumulated capital which they are willing to expend in the improvement of the land. For this reason I think it will be necessary to reconsider the price. It seems an anomaly to fix a uniform price of 20s. an acre for all land, whether good or bad, agricultural or pastoral, within reach of a market or far away in the wilds of the interior. A great deal of the land is perhaps worth £1 an acre, but it will be difficult to assign a value to large tracts in many parts; and although some may be valuable, all cannot be so equal value. The private proprietor desirous of alienating of his land does not act upon this principle; he does not put a uniform price upon all his land, but varies it according to its situation and other elements of value. Why should not this be done by the State. There is one matter in which both parts of the electorate are concerned,—I mean as to its representation by one or two members. We have here about 2200 voters to return one member, whilst in Parramatta 1100 voters return two. We should have the electorate divided and each portion should return a member, or we should have an additional member for the whole electorate. This I shall be prepared at a fit and proper time to advocate. There is a matter which relates solely to the Glebe, I mean the reclamation of Blackwattle Swamp. (Cheers.) It is a disgrace to the Government that something has not been done in this matter to which I have twice called their attention, once in my official capacity as Mayor. The interests of the electors have not, further, been overlooked by their Municipal Council. The water supply afforded a question of great interest to the people of the Glebe. Should the scheme propounded by the commission which recently sat to consider the question, be dealt with practically by the Government, I hope the management of it will not be placed in the hands of the City Council. (Cheers.) The suburbs may then expect to be supplied upon fair terms. Having no other public question to speak upon, I would now say, if you approve of my opinions, vote for me. If you do not I shall be quite content to go back into private life, although I shall feel it an honour to be the representative of the Glebe, where I have resided for the greater part of my life, and where I have a considerable local interest.

In answer to questions, Mr Allen said he should, if elected, go into the House unconnected with any party; and at present he saw none to be formed except upon personal predilections. He would not object to Triennial Parliaments, but he was decidedly opposed to the payment of members. He was not in favour of abolishing the Veto. The question of the hours of labour was one to be settled, not by legislation, but between employers and employed. He was not a protectionist.

WINDSOR ELECTION.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

A largely attended meeting of the electors of Windsor favourable to the re-election of Mr W. Walker, was held at the Fitzroy Hotel, on Thursday evening, Mr. J. B Johnston, J.P. occupied the chair. The chairman said the present was a time of great importance, and there was one matter in particular which required the consideration of the constituencies, that was the revenue of the country which he thought was in a very unsatisfactory state, and likely to get worse in the hands of the present Government. Although the Premier had stated that the revenue was in a flourishing condition he did not hesitate to say that such a statement was false, for instead of having a balance of £80,000 they had to borrow £300,000 to assist them to pay off the year's liabilities. It was proposed to do away with the ad valorem duties, and if the revenue then failed to meet the expenditure, the Government had pledged themselves to impose a property and income tax. If they did this, they would have to raise a million of money, as most of the income derived would be swallowed up in the payment of collectors, which would serve very well, no doubt, to increase the patronage of the Government, and assist to keep them in office. It was the duty of the constituencies to judge their representatives; and he begged now to introduce to the meeting their old friend, Mr. Walker. (Cheers.)

Mr. Walker said he was glad to see so many present. He had contested three elections, and had now represented this constituency for nearly ten years. His candidature on the present occasion was not to satisfy his own personal inclinations, but he had been induced to stand by a large number of his friends, and he was willing to serve them again, rather than see the constituency trifled with. As far as was known at present, there was no one in the field publicly against him; but there was no doubt some one behind the scenes, and he fully expected opposition, though it might only be brought against him to satisfy the personal spite of some persons. Mr. Walker then proceeded to explain the circumstances which had brought about the present state of things. A dissolution had taken place, and he thought no sooner than was necessary. At the last general election there was a cry of free trade, and the same cry was again attempted to be raised. On that occasion a large majority were sent to the Assembly said to be free-traders; but instead of doing what was expected, Mr Cowper's Government introduced a scheme to double the duties on tea and sugar, establish trade licenses, and put a tax on servants—that was free trade with a vengeance. This scheme, however, did not meet with the approbation of the House, and the ad valorem duties were established to meet a large deficiency created by the Cowper Government. He did not believe in ad valorem duties; but he preferred indirect taxation through the Customs on specific articles as a means of raising revenue, to a scheme which would raise an army of tax-gatherers such as the country would be burdened with if the property and income tax shadowed forth by the present Government ever became law. It was proposed to do away with the ad valorem duties, one-half on the 30th June next, and the other half on the 31st December, and thus deprive the country of a revenue of nearly £300,000. That would be all very well if the country could afford it, and he doubted if the Government would abandon those duties; if they did, it would only be to put their successors into a difficulty. He had given the Martin and Parkes Administration an independent support—independent because he had nothing to gain by the part he took, and all he desired to see was the good government of the country. (Cheers.) He alluded to the many useful measures which had been passed during the Martin and Parkes Administration, including the Industrial Reforms Act, the Volunteer Act, and the Public Schools Act. He supported the Public Schools Act, because it was a fair compromise of the various religious interests, whilst, under its provisions, were taught the fundamental principles of Christianity, without offence to class, colour, or creed, and a good sound English education. It did not destroy the Denominational schools, for wherever there was a sufficient number of scholars, these schools were equally supported. It would appear from Mr Robertson's address that he was in favour of a purely secular education, which would have the effect of doing away with the Denominational schools altogether. Such a godless system as that he certainly would not support. Mr. Walker then proceeded to advocate a thorough retrenchment, and by the way pointed out the absurdity of the scheme introduced by the present Government. They expected to save £30,000 by retrenchment, whilst at the same time, they put down £30,000 for assisted immigration. He concluded his address amidst loud applause.

An Elector asked Mr. Walker if he would support the erection of a bridge over the Hawkesbury, if returned. Mr. Walker said he certainly would, and pointed out what he had done on a previous occasion when the present Government and their supporters, with one or two exceptions, refused to vote a shilling for a bridge at Windsor, although he (Mr. Walker) told them in the House that he would be quite satisfied with half the amount that was placed on the Estimates at that time. He would, however, be most happy to renew his efforts in that direction, or do anything to further the interests of the district.

Mr James Atkinson moved,—"That this meeting having entire confidence in their late member, Mr. Walker, pledges itself to use its best exertions to secure his return; and that a committee be appointed for that purpose."

Mr. H. Blanchard seconded the proposition, which was put to the meeting, and carried unanimously.

A large number were then enrolled on the committee.

THE COUNTY OF NORTHUMBERLAND ELECTION.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

Mr. Cleveland addressed a crowded meeting of electors on Thursday evening, Mr. R. Forster occupying the chair. He was well received. He said he would go into the House an independent member, pledged to no party, and free from any local or sectarian prejudices. This district had been sadly neglected by its representatives, while the greater part of the revenue had been spent in Sydney. He condemned the expenditure of thousands of pounds on the Post Office in Sydney, while our post-office was a miserable structure, little better than a pigstye. He advocated manhood suffrage, and would not support any Government which was opposed to it. He was in favour of an elective Upper House, and Triennial Parliaments or even Annual Parliaments, as in a young colony like this we required a change of representatives oftener. Free trade, he considered, was the only method of making this colony prosperous, for from the very day the ad valorem duties came in force our prosperity had declined. The shipping interest of the colony has been much neglected, and he would devote his attention to the subject if returned. He was strongly opposed to any system of immigration except such as would introduce a wholesome class into the colony, for we did not want any additional pauper population. He believed in the principle of Mr. Robertson's Land Act, but the measure was still open to amendment. The free selectors should have more time allowed for the payment of their money, and he would forward their interests in this respect. With regard to a Fencing Act, he thought such a measure was much required, and had been the cause of much litigation and bad feeling among neighbours. He approved of the Public Schools Act, but thought due regard should be paid to the judicious selection of teachers. In speaking to retrenchment, he said he regarded it as the great word of the day. He would reduce the Governor's salary to £3000. Then there were the Judges—Chief Justice, £3000; Justice Cheeke, £2600; Justice Faucett, £1500—all these he would reduce to less than half. As for the Bishop of Sydney, with his £2000 a-year, he would send that functionary about his business; and he also thought the Bishop of Goulburn, who received £2000 per annum, and the Roman Catholic Bishop of Grafton, should be treated in a similar way. According to Mr. Samuels, after the abolition of the newspaper tax and ad valorem there would still be £2,640,000 to govern the colony with, and he considered that ought to be sufficient for 500,000 people. He was in favour of a tax on absentees who now possessed £20,000,000 worth of property in the colony, for which they did not pay one penny. At the conclusion of Mr. Cleveland's address the usual motion, expressing confidence in his ability, to represent the electorate, was passed nem. con.

The same evening Dr. Brooks, another candidate for the county, addressed a large meeting of electors at the Borehole, Mr. J. M'Gee in the chair. He rose amid loud cheers, and commenced his address by stating that he refused to be degraded to the position of a mere partisan, whether of Mr. Martin or Mr. Robertson. He had had many more years' political experience than either of these gentlemen, and under circumstances more favourable than any they had enjoyed. He was not prepared to endorse the policy pursued in the House, especially of late. Their proposition to reduce all salaries 1½ per cent. was a collusive measure, a mere sham, and one which, if carried, would have inflicted great injustice upon many well qualified and old servants in the Civil Service. There was also a proposition for the £3,000,000 loan, which the less said about the better. He was strongly in favour of a Triennial Parliaments Bill, and strongly condemned Mr. Parkes, who he did not hesitate to say had changed his opinions on the subject. He thought any measure was acceptable which had for the object the education of our rising generation, who would be the future legislators of the colony, and on the land policy and immigration the speaker dwelt at considerable length. While avowing his hearty approval of Free Selection as a means of breaking down land monopoly it fell far short of accomplishing the object which a paternal Government should devise for the establishment of agricultural communities, surrounded with those elements of civilisation which are so essential to their moral and material welfare. He would endeavour to so improve the measure that small capitalists would be induced to avail themselves of its advantages. He directed attention to his efforts to establish the eight hour system in the mines, and pointed out the benefit its adoption had created. On this subject he expressed it as his opinion that the exhaustion of the vital energies by excessive labour was one of the prolific sources of those habits of drunkenness which all professed to deplore. Finally, he besought the electors to support his candidature on the merits of his eligibility alone, and be protected against the system of personal canvass and the buttonholing of the elector, accompanied by the usual cajolery for the sake of his vote. A unanimous and enthusiastic vote was recorded in Dr. Brookes' favour, and a committee appointed to secure his return.

At Wallsend last night Mr Joseph Ward had one of the largest meetings yet held in the district. Mr. Alnwick occupied the chair. Mr. Ward claimed to be largely identified with the coal interest in which his business in Sydney was extending year by year; therefore there might be a little selfishness in his desire to become member for Northumberland, as he could not serve the district without serving himself. He had been termed a nominee of the coal proprietors, but this he denied, and said he was scarcely on speaking terms with any of them. He was not a seeker of place or pay nor yet a man who had relatives to provide for by Government Ministers; therefore they need not fear to send him in on that score. First, he thought local wants should command attention, and he would promise them that if they returned him he would follow the example set by their late member. He would use his best efforts to obtain a good road through the district,—the necessity was so apparent that comment upon the matter was unnecessary. He would advocate a Harbour Trust as a judicious way of dealing with the interests of the port. It stood to reason that commercial people were more competent to deal with measures like these than theoretical men. The ventilation of mines he considered of most serious importance, and he would heart and soul advocate any measures for the preservation of life. He approved of the Education Bill, which, however, he hardly considered perfect. He said the cost of the retention of ships was something astonishing in this port and he supposed they would scarcely believe that before a vessel left Newcastle the price of coal was doubled. He was an advocate for retrenchment, but would not be in favour of a reduction of the lower salaries. He was in favour of Triennial Parliaments, as he considered the oftener members returned to their constituents the better it was for the country. The show of hands was a very large one for the candidate, and the meeting then terminated.

ELECTORATE OF GOULBURN.—PUBLIC MEETING.

(Abridged from the Goulburn Herald.)

On Wednesday evening Mr. Alexander, the retiring member and a candidate for re-election, addressed the electors of Goulburn in the hall of the Mechanics' Institute. There was a large attendance, probably of about three hundred persons.

On the motion of Alderman Collins, the chair was taken by the Mayor (Mr. F. Horn).

Mr Alexander, who was received with applause, said that they all knew that he never put himself forward as much of a speaker, and his diffidence was increased by having to address so large and influential a meeting. Those present had certainly known him for many years, and he must crave their kind indulgence for his many shortcomings. Conscious as he was that he was not a fluent speaker, he felt that he could yet say that he had done his duty as a representative as well as many of those who spoke a great deal and did very little else. It was now eight or nine years since they had done him the distinguished honour of electing him as their representative; and he was then unfortunately prevented from being present, so that his election was perhaps the higher compliment. Five years ago he had had the honour of appearing before them; and it had sometimes been his intention to call them together and give an account of his stewardship; but as no one had evinced any particular wish that he should do so, he had ventured to take it that they were well satisfied to dispense with this. They were aware that Parliament had been dissolved, and that he was therefore again before them as a candidate for their suffrages. If he studied his own comfort, he should be well satisfied to retire into private life; but some of his friends thought there were yet a few years service in him, and it was in compliance with their wish that he was willing to devote a further portion of his time to the service of the country. During the time he had been their representative many important questions had come before Parliament; and to these subjects he had given his best attention, and he had voted on them in a manner he was led to hope had their approval. [A voice: What about the duty on tea and sugar?] He had always been a freetrader. The proposal to increase the duties on tea and sugar was now entirely dropped, and was not likely to be revived. It was, therefore, scarcely necessary now to put such a question to him. Still he did not shrink from saying that he had been in favour of raising these duties as a means of increasing the revenue far less objectionable than the ad valorem duties. Under the ad valorem duties people were called upon to pay much more than they would have to do under the present financial scheme of the Treasurer. (Cheers.) He had always been in favour of retrenchment (cheers); and if again elected would support any well-devised scheme for decreasing the public burdens; but he had considered it his duty to oppose Sir James Martin's proposition for reducing all salaries by one-twelfth, because he could not consent to diminish the incomes of those who had only £100 or £150 a year. A scheme like that propounded by Mr. Cowper, where the salaries were proposed to be reduced according to a scale increasing as the rate of salary increased, would however command his support. He had constantly supported the Public Schools Act. (Cheers.) He had always been in favour of bringing up the youth of the colony together, irrespective of differences of creed, believing that this had the effect of promoting that general feeling of good-will which ought to obtain between man and man. The Public Schools Act was now the law of the land; he trusted it would always remain so (cheers), and if he were to return to Parliament he should be ready in his place to support it if it were threatened. (Cheers.) He had always supported a liberal and comprehensive method of dealing with the public lands of the country; and any measure that would tend to the improvement of the present system should have his support. He thought an improved method of dealing with our lands would have the effect of bringing a large population to these shores. With the small population they now had it was in vain to hope for any great progress to be made in the establishment of manufactures. But with a large influx of immigration the colony would again attain the prosperous condition it enjoyed some twenty years ago. They possessed all the materials except population for making this a great and prosperous country; and with the very great masses of people in Great Britain who were almost starving it was a great pity that this country should be so thinly populated. When they elected him to Parliament there was one great and absorbing question before the country—that of free-selection. This he had materially assisted to pass. It was now the law of the land, and he believed it to be a very great improvement on the former system. Measures for still further amending our land law would have the earnest attention of the present Liberal Administration should they retain office. His desire was to support all such measures as would prove conducive to the best interests of the country; and the electors would best do their part by returning efficient representatives to Parliament. They were now having a most delightful season, which he hoped would be followed by others, and that the consequence would be that they would see Goulburn and the district as well as other parts of the colony in as prosperous a condition as ever. Misfortunes had of late years attended the settlers; but there was now promise of a great change which he sincerely hoped would be realised, and that they would have good seasons and good harvests; and then with the advantage of railway communication the country must again become prosperous. Since his connection with the electorate the town had greatly improved and this he attributed to the operations of their Municipal Council, which certainly had done very much for the city. They now had streets through which one could walk with pleasure; and if the coming councils did their duty as well as the present one had done, there was every reason to believe that Goulburn, from its advantages of climate and other recommendations, would become the Brighton of New South Wales—(cheers)—and that many Sydney people would come to reside here for a portion of the year. He had met with an accident that had somewhat shaken his nerves and caused him to be late at that meeting, and this rendered him less able to address them as he wished than he otherwise should have been; and on this account he craved their kind indulgence for any defects or omissions in his remarks. However, he was prepared to answer any questions that any of the electors might desire to put to him. He had been their representative several years; and he hoped that his conduct had been such as to give to his constituents, with perhaps a few exceptions, general satisfaction. In all matters to which his attention had been called and in all the business matters entrusted to him he had taken every pains to do justice, without consideration whether the person applying to him had been friend or foe; and should they again return him it should be his study to serve their public or private interests to the best of his ability. He had attended punctually to his duties in Parliament; and even when ill and more fit to be in his bed than in the House he had gone down to vote on measures of importance. Thus when the Public Schools Act was before the Assembly he had sat up often till two and three o'clock and on one occasion till nine o'clock in the morning. (Cheers.) It was through this kind of perseverance that this measure was now the law of the land. It had been most successful and he believed it would continue to be so; and they had only to go and inspect the Public school and witness how well the work of education was carried on and see how happy the children appeared, to be satisfied that it was working as well as its friends had ever thought it would. [Mr. Curran: What about the children who do not go to the public schools?] That he supposed was the fault of the parents for not sending them there. (Loud cheers and laughter.) He might mention that he had always been a strong supporter of the charitable institutions of the colony. He considered himself a Liberal to the fullest extent; and he would just as soon take the Protestant or the Catholic by the hand as he would one of his own persuasion, or as he would his brother—(cheers)—and if he went into Parliament he did so free and independent, sworn to no master and no sect. (Loud cheers.) In conclusion, Mr. Alexander again expressed his willingness to answer any questions that might be put to him.

Mr. W. Davies proposed,—"That, viewing Mr. Alexander's career in the Assembly, this meeting is of opinion that he is a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of Goulburn in the forthcoming Parliament." They had made no arrangements for movers or seconders, so that the proposition was entirely in the hands of the meeting.

Mr. Yeatman seconded the resolution.

The Chairman proceeded to put the resolution and declared it carried, a very few hands being held up against it. The Chairman then said that he supposed the next step would be for Mr. Alexander's friends to endeavour to secure his return.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

SECOND DAY.

Though what may be called an off-day, the contests yesterday were the most important of the meeting. All the crack shots entered for the various matches, and many who are only now coming to the front successfully disputed the honours of the day. The most popular match of the meeting is that for the Ladies' Prize, for which there were a large number of competitors, and, after a keen contest, the chief prize was taken by Corporal Tinley, of the Balmain Company, Ensign Cooper, of No. 1 Company, Sydney Battalion, securing second place. The remaining prizes were taken by Lieutenant Brown, of Newcastle; Mr Finch of No. 1 Company; Mr. Slade, of No. 1 Company; and Lieutenant Faithfull, of No. 6 Company.

The National Rifle Association Medal, for the highest aggregate scorer in the 1st and second matches (the chief prize of the meeting), was won by Mr Maddocks, of No. 1 Company; and the £5 for the highest scorer in the second match fell to Mr. Thrum, of the South Sydney Company.

For the Marksmen's Match there were a large number of entries, which resulted as follows:—Mr. Slade, 1; Mr. West, No. 6 Company, 2; Mr. M'Donald, Parramatta Company, 3; and Mr. Brownlow, No 1 Company, 4.

For the Recruit's Match there were a fair number of entrances, Mr. Helmrich, of the Highlanders, taking first prize, and Mr. Swift, of South Sydney Company, second.

In the All Comer's match (small bore), the first prize at 900 yards, was taken by Ensign Cooper, of No. 1 Company. For the second prize there were three ties—Messrs. Dangar, Slade, and Walker (the latter gentleman was one of the Melbourne Intercolonial team); in shooting off, Mr. Walker beat his two opponents and secured second place. At the 1000 yards range, Mr. Compton took the first prize, Messrs. Brownlow and Lynch being equal for second place; the latter was successful in shooting off. The prize for the highest aggregate at the four ranges of 300, 600, 900, and 1000 yards, was taken by Mr. Brownlow.

The last match was for an oil painting, presented by Mr. Mountcastle. This was taken by Captain Richards, of No. 5 Company, S B.

The members of the Match Committee on the ground were Lieutenant-Colonel Richardson, Mr. L. Hordern, Captain Baynes, Mr. Henry Lane, Ensign Strong, Mr. H. C. Dangar, and Mr. Brewer. We yesterday omitted to mention that Mr. L. Hordern, one of the members of the Match Committee, attended in his official capacity throughout the day.

The medical officer present on Thursday was Surgeon Milford, and yesterday Drs. Dansey and Cox.

In yesterday's issue it was stated that Private Wilson took first place in the match for Colonel Richardson's prize for efficiency; this, however, was secured by Sergeant Thrum of the suburban Battalion.

To-day a number of interesting matches will be shot off,—namely, the Artillery carbine, Naval Brigade carbine, Cadets, Honorary Members, and Battalion Bugle; and in the afternoon the Band of the Volunteer Rifles will perform a selection of music on the ground.

SECOND MATCH.

The Medal presented by the National Rifle Association of England and entitling the winner to compete at Wimbledon for H R H. the Prince of Wales' Prize of £[illegible], to be competed for by the thirty prize winners in the first match—7 shots each at the respective ranges of 300 and 600 yards (Hythe position). The highest scorer throughout the first and second matches to be declared the winner. A prize of £5 will be given to the highest scorer in this match, the winner of the Medal being excluded. Entrance, 5s.

INFANT CHILD FOUND.—The body of a child was found on Thursday morning early by a number of Corporation labourers, at the mouth of a sewer at the foot of Dixon-street, and close to Liverpool-street. The body, which was very much decomposed, was wrapped up and conveyed to the dead house of the Benevolent Asylum. The body was there seen by Dr Renwick, who pronounced it to be that of a still-born child. An inquest was therefore deemed unnecessary.

MURDER OF CAPTAIN BLACKETT AND SIX OF THE CREW OF THE BARQUE MOAROA.

(Literal translation from the Messager de Tahiti.)

PAPEETE, October 2, 1869.

A VESSEL of the Protectorate has just been the theatre of a fearful drama, of which we cannot give a better account than by publishing the report of the mate, who has brought back the ship. The Moaroa bought by Mr Stewart, left Atimaono some months ago, with a cargo of cotton for Auckland, and she was to return with native labourers for the station.

It was in the latter part of the ship that Captain Blackett and a portion of his crew met with their frightful death.

A widow and two little children, who were much loved by many friends have been left behind at Papeete by the unfortunate captain. A lively sympathy is consequently felt for these interesting victims, whom this fearful disaster has deprived of all means of support.

The following is an extract from the report of the mate:—

"The men of the watch were aft busy preparing planks to make a partition between the hatchway and the poop, when all of a sudden, and without any warning (I had, however, noticed a boy steal a knife from one of our men, and I then begged the captain and Mons Lattin to come aft). All of a sudden, as I said, the Kanakas rushed aft and attacked my watch. I was then near the door of my cabin, whence I saw a Kanaka kill Mons. Lattin with the blow of an axe; the latter was then near the main rigging. I then seized a carbine and ran to help the captain, but it was too late; he had received a stab in the back, and another in the body, and had fallen quite dead close to the door of the cabin. I sent a man below who had been very dangerously stabbed in the back. Beside the stab, the captain had received a frightful blow from an axe. The axe was stolen by one of the natives from a case of tools which happened to be on deck.

"At 6 a.m. the starboard watch was attacked forward, but having four old cutlasses, which I put there overnight, they defended themselves, and the entrance to the forecastle being so narrow, only allowing passage for one man at a time, the Kanakas discontinued attacking them.

"At 9 a.m. two of the starboard watch succeeded in making their way to us by detaching the planks of the partition, and as I held open the door of the cabin leading to the 'tween deck, we saw them coming; they told me that the others would not be long in coming also, which turned out to be true. I had then five more men but hardly any arms, our long cavalry sabres being of little use in a hand-to-hand conflict.

"Towards 11 o'clock the mate insisted, in spite of me, on calling for the interpreter, who was at that time bound by the Kanakas in the cabin on deck. I warned him several times that the natives had got possession of the interpreter's double-barrelled gun, and that it was loaded, but he paid not the slightest attention to it, and was killed by a Kanaka with this same gun. He fell stone dead, the ball entered the right shoulder after having struck the wood which surrounded the skylight, and came out about four inches from the other side of the heart. When the Kanakas saw him fall, they gave a diabolical yell on deck. I then ceased firing, thinking that in doing so the Kanakas would regain confidence, and I should be able to take them unawares, but there were too many on deck, and they continued to laugh and yell, thinking, no doubt, of the quantity of tobacco and stuffs which the captain had shown them, and which they reckoned upon seizing in a short time.

"I was determined to retake the vessel, but it was not so easy with two guns and a revolver, which would not go off. Then I decided on making a desperate effort; it was to blow up the deck amidships, and in the midst of the confusion which would follow, to make a rush across the smoke and retake the vessel. We had got from the three-masted vessel, Annie, 45 boxes (in tin), each containing half-a-pound powder. I poured out 34 in a little empty barrel, and after having placed mats and sail-cloth below it to protect the 'tween decks, I, with six other tins, laid a train from the barrel to the main passage (gran panneau) to the deck (faux pont).

"I then gave orders for all to go as far aft as possible, because from there they could all reach the deck immediately after the explosion, and not to wait for me, they being further aft and more remote from the explosion, and because I did not know myself what would happen to me from being so near. But I was confident, and never so calm in my life. After having seen the men in safety, and offered a short prayer for my wife and children, I set fire to the train, throwing myself down at the same time on the 'tween deck. The explosion followed immediately, and I was nearly stifled with the smoke. I then went on deck, where I found the men who had got there before me, as also the interpreter, who had been freed by his wife. I did not see a single Kanaka, but the sea was covered with black heads making for the island. My first care was to send two men down between decks to put out the fire, and with the others I got up all the rigging which was dragging overboard, the natives trying meantime to reboard with knives and other arms. Thank God, the ship was completely in our hands, and nothing had taken fire with the exception of the sailcloth, which had been placed below the powder barrels, and was completely extinguished by two buckets of water. I sounded the pumps immediately afterwards, and as we had not pumped since 4 a.m., and as there were only two feet water in the hold—not more than we usually made in the same time—I considered the ship was not materially injured by the explosion, although she shook like an earthquake.

"I went below to see the state of things. The forecastle was partly destroyed, but there was hardly any damage in the after cabin. All the damage which had been done to it was caused by the oars with which the natives had attacked us through the skylight. The chronometer appeared to be going well. The ship watch was broken and entirely done for, the thermometer was broken, and the aneroid on the ground with the glass broken. I witnessed other breakages, &c., which I need not particularise. At noon we took the sun, and hoisted the flag half-mast. I think that all the natives got ashore at Byron's Island, with the exception of two women who remained on board to go to Tahiti.

"I omitted to say that our boats astern were carried off by the natives whilst we were blockaded in the cabin.

"Sunday, July 18.—Started with calms, and finished the day with light breezes. At 1 o'clock we pumped the ship, and commenced cleaning the deck. Underneath the things used by the natives in barricading the skylight, and on the port side, close to the cabin door, was the captain, whose head only was visible. It took me a long time to get him out, having only five men fit to work. The captain was literally covered with wounds, and the left side of his face almost entirely gone. We placed him on a mat, and, after having cleaned the deck and repaired the rigging, and looked after the wounded, I sent men to wrap the captain and lieutenant (mate) in a new mat. Then, after having affixed fifty bricks to each, and wrapped them in flags, at 5 o'clock, as the sun was setting, we offered up prayers for the dead—all being present, weeping like children—and launched them into the deep.

"Having performed our duties to the dead, I thought of the survivors and the safety of the ship. I found that the deck between the fore and after hatches had risen about nine inches, and that the planks had been completely torn away on the starboard side. There were several other breakages, but we managed to make the voyage to Tahiti under small sails. Having on board a large old sail, I cut it up in small pieces and nailed them on those parts of the deck which were open, having previously tarred them to prevent the water coming in. All the stancheons had fallen. We put them in place again, and I hope, with the repairs we shall be able to make, that I shall succeed in taking the vessel to Atimaono."

LAW.

SUPREME COURT—FRIDAY.

SITTINGS FOR THE TRIAL OF CAUSES.

JURY COURT.

Before his Honor Mr. Justice FAUCETT and a jury of four.

CALDER V. COOPER.

The trial of this case was resumed (from Thursday) and lasted the whole of the day without being concluded. It will be continued, and probably concluded, on Monday.

BANCO COURT.

Before his Honor Sir ALFRED STEPHEN and juries of four.

HARBER V. THE BOROUGH OF MARRICKVILLE.

The trial of this case was resumed (from Wednesday) and concluded.

It was an action by the owner of a certain brickfield, in the borough of Marrickville, against the Municipal Council of that borough, to recover compensation from the latter for the cutting of a drain through his (plaintiff's) property. The defendants had paid £25 into Court, and the substantial question for determination was whether plaintiff was entitled to more than this sum.

Mr. Salomons, instructed by Messrs Holdsworth and Brown, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Darley and Mr. Davis, instructed by Mr. Leary, for the defendants.

The plaintiff had brought an action against one Bloomfield, a neighbour, for cutting a drain to the edge of his (plaintiff's) land, and had obtained a verdict for £50. The Marrickville Council had continued this drain through plaintiff's land to a natural creek or watercourse, by which the surface waters draining from the higher lands in the neighbourhood were carried, although at no great speed (the fall being but slight), to Cook's River. This continuation took up about a sixth of an acre. It was clear that in doing this the Council had not exceeded its powers, but that the plaintiff was entitled by the statute to be compensated fairly for whatever injury he could be shown to have sustained. The plaintiff claimed £150, and alleged that he had sustained injury to that amount, not only by cutting of the drain itself, but by the flooding of a part of his land by the water which it brought down, and which the creek would not carry off fast enough. The defendants maintained that the drain had actually improved the plaintiff's land, that this land had always been partly flooded at times, and that the sum paid into Court was more than enough to satisfy any fair claim for compensation. Also, that plaintiff had at one time asked to have this drain cut. There was a good deal of evidence on both sides as to the value of the land. By some witnesses it was valued as high as £100 an acre, and by others as low as £30 an acre. The defendants had made an offer before the action to pay £35, or to refer the whole matter to arbitration; but this offer had not been accepted. It was sworn by Mr. Hayes, C E, who had made a survey of the ground, &c., as consulting-engineer for the Corporation, that the dam had been cut in the proper place. There was a good deal of other evidence both for the plaintiff and defendants, as to collateral facts bearing upon the case; especially as to how far the plaintiff had been damaged as a brickmaker, by the ground upon which he had had a "hack" (a place for laying new moulded bricks to dry) having been covered over by the earth taken out of the drain which the Corporation had dug. By the plaintiff's counsel it was maintained that, as this would be the only action which plaintiff could bring against the defendants, and must finally settle his claim, he was entitled to be paid fairly, according to the value of the land to himself as a homestead, not its mere market value. Also, that whether the drain in question was in the best place or not, the plaintiff would be entitled to such full and fair payment. The drain and adjacent lands were viewed by the jury.

His HONOR assented to the statement of plaintiff's counsel as to the law, and told the jury that the sole question for their determination was, as to the amount of compensation which the plaintiff ought to receive. Whether the £25 paid into Court was sufficient? And, if not, how much more ought to be awarded?

The jury without leaving the box found a verdict for the defendant, and added the following rider to their verdict:—"We may state that the Municipality of Marrickville have drained the land in accordance with the natural features of the country, and have much improved Harber's brickfield."

After the return of this verdict it became a question as to what order should be made in reference to costs, inasmuch as by the provisions of the Municipalities Act authorising this kind of action (section 119), it is left discretionary to the presiding Judge to make such order as to costs as he may think fit.

His Honor, after hearing plaintiff's counsel, but without calling on the other side, directed that all the costs of the action from the time of the filing of the defendants' plea and the payment into Court of the £25, should be paid by the plaintiff. His Honor added that he had no doubt as to the jury being perfectly competent to decide this case, or as to their having arrived at a just conclusion. He desired further to add, he said, that a disposition to obstruct and impede the action of municipal corporations appeared to be far too prevalent. These bodies were doing a very great deal of good to the country, and ought to be rather assisted than obstructed by the people for whose benefit they were working. Instead of this, it seemed to be the practice for every one who could make out a claim for a shilling against a corporation in reference to anything which had been done in the course of its duties, to persist in pressing that claim to its fullest possible extent. He for one, most certainly, did not approve of this mode of proceeding.

BURY V. HUGHES.

This was an action against a shipmaster on a contract for the safe conveyance of certain sheep from Sydney to Calcutta by the ship City of Sydney, the breach declared upon being the non-delivery of the said sheep. There were also counts for trover, money had and received, &c. Besides denials of all the general averments in the plaintiff's declaration, it was pleaded that the sheep had been lost through perils of the seas.

Mr M H Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen and Stephen, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Darley, instructed by Messrs. Roxburgh, Slade, and Spain, for the defendant.

Jury; Mr. Frederick Thomas Miller, of Arundel-terrace, Glebe; Mr. Lewis Moore, of Pyrmont Bridge Road, Glebe; Mr. William Moore, of Denman-street, Glebe; and Mr. Robert Cooper Murray, of Orimbah-terrace, Newtown.

Plaintiff claimed £25 for ten sheep, at £2 10s. per head. The sheep had been shipped at Sydney for Calcutta in March, 1866, and the price claimed was said to be the market price of Australian sheep at Calcutta at the time when their arrival should in the ordinary course have been delivered there. These sheep had been sent with some others which the defendant was carrying for himself. The plaintiff's case was that the animals had been used for the ship, or remained on board after arrival at Calcutta, and were retained for such use; while the defendant's case was that they had died on the passage. The evidence was conflicting.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff; damages, £15.

His Honor certified for costs.

JURORS FINED.—Mr. Michael Metcalfe J P, of Cook's River Road, and Mr. George Allen Mansfield, of Pyrmont Bridge Road, Glebe, were each fined £3 yesterday, by Sir Alfred Stephen, for not having attended to serve as jurors.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE their Worships the Police Magistrate, Messrs. Hordern, R. Chapman, Jolly, G. Hill, Oatley, Caraher, Love, Thompson, and Hunt.

Eleven persons were fined in sums varying from 5s. to 20s., some for drunkenness and others for making use of obscene language.

Ann Doyle, 19, an idle and disorderly person, having neither lawful means of support nor a fixed abode, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Honora Davoren was brought before the Bench by constable Worrow, who deposed that about 8 o'clock last evening he saw the defendant in George-street, very much excited, and assaulting every person near her; she was not drunk; he took her into custody on suspicion of being of unsound mind, but afterwards two persons charged her with having assaulted them. Defendant pleaded guilty to the charge of assault. Matthew Collier and William Wilkinson said that seeing a concourse of people in George-street they went over to see what was the cause, when they were violently struck by defendant; neither ever saw her before; she was from some cause or other considerably excited at the time, and they had no wish to press the charge. Their Worships discharged the defendant on the charge of suspected insanity, but in respect of the assaults in each case sentenced her to pay 40s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

Mary Ann Leslie was summarily convicted of having stolen 15s. from her employer, William Robinson, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

Ann Doran was found guilty of having assaulted Patrick Brady, and was ordered to pay 10s., or to be imprisoned three days.

Three prisoners were discharged.

Two drunkards were fined 5s and 10s respectively; in default, two days' imprisonment.

John Depue appeared before the Court, charged with stealing a table cover, valued at 10s., from James Mitchell. The table-cover produced was stolen from prosecutor's premises in Bridge-street, on the 24th instant, and was pawned by prisoner on the same day, with Henry James. Prisoner pleaded not guilty, and, electing to be summarily dealt with, was sentenced to be imprisoned for one month.

James Berry, Henry Raymond Philip Sheehy, Michael O'Brien, Thomas Flynn, and James Smith were fined 10s. each and 5s. costs, upon the information of inspector Seymour, for neglecting to keep their premises clean; and Patrick Barns, for a like offence, was mulcted in the sum of 20s. and 5s. costs of Court.

THE YASS ELECTORATE.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—In answer to the leading article in the Herald of the 23rd instant, in which my name so prominently appears, I beg to refer you to a letter, which I have already sent to the Yass Courier, concerning a desultory conversation which took place between me and a few other gentlemen of Yass, and which I shall take it as a favour if you will publish, together with this communication. The conversation alluded to took place after the meetings for that day had closed, and was carried on in the spirit of banter rather than seriousness, and no person ever imagined it would have been reported. The other facetiæ reported in the Yass Courier have been overlooked, whilst any accidental expression that could serve a party purpose is carefully noted, and, I think I may say, rather unscrupulously used. Knowing that a general election is about to take place, and that your readers are fully aware what can be said and written during such a time I should not have taken the least notice of the above mentioned article, were it not that in it a reference is made to the Vicar-General of the Goulburn Diocese. I wish to state that the Vicar-General neither wrote nor spoke to me of the coming elections. For the information of the Herald I also beg to state that the Vicar-General of Sydney, the Very Reverend Doctor Sheehy, has nothing whatever to do with the Goulburn Diocese, except as an ordinary dignitary of the Church.

Your very obedient servant,
RICHARD JOSEPH DUIGAN, C.C.

Yass, November 25.

To the Editor of the Yass Courier.

SIR,—In answer to the letters written in the Yass Courier, regarding a conversation which occurred between me and some others of the gentlemen of Yass, on the 22nd instant, I beg to repeat a statement which I then made, that considering I came to the Court House to sign a requisition asking Mr. Laidlaw to represent the Yass constituency, I could not come there with any sectarian motives.

Living, as I have always done, on the most intimate terms of friendship with members of every denomination, nothing would more deeply grieve me than that I should, even in a moment of surprise or excitement, say ought that would lessen those friendly feelings which should exist between all Christian communities.

As to the correctness of the report made of that conversation, on the night of making public what was then said, I will leave to the consideration of the gentlemen who were then present. There are occasions, and an election is especially one of those occasions, when a few individuals, for ends best known to themselves, take occasion of even an incautious word or sentence spoken to raise such word or sentence as a party cry, ignoring altogether the many evil consequences which may follow from such a proceeding.

RICHARD JOSEPH DUIGAN, C. C.

Yass, November 25.

CUDGEGONG CINNABAR COMPANY'S MEETING.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—In reference to an article in your paper of to-day in connection with the above company, I would wish to remark that in the protracted discussion that took place, the importance of the value of Mr. Reading's discovery which will probably place this mine in the first rank of mining enterprise, seemed hardly to be sufficiently estimated.

To those shareholders who were unable to attend, and to some of those who did, the following paper and table would probably be acceptable, and remove any doubts as to the future value of their shares, should you be pleased to favour them with insertion.

JOHN BELL.

Sydney, 26th November.

"From a certain earth in the above mine, hitherto considered as valueless, and which is represented as being unlimited in quantity, Mr. Reading has produced 6 per cent. of quicksilver.

"It is submitted to the consideration of the directors and shareholders the propriety of working this particular earth, in preference to expending further sums at present in search of richer ore, which may or may not be discovered.

"The following table will show that, with a yield of from 6 per cent. downwards to even 1 per cent., the mine on Mr. Reading's principle can be profitably worked.

"The material can be dug, washed, dressed, the chemical process applied, and the residuum retorted at an expense of 12s 6d per ton. But to guard against contingencies 20s. is allowed in the table.

"The value of the quicksilver is reckoned at only 1s. 6d. per lb. The London price being 1s. 9d. per lb., and the Sydney price 2s. 6d per lb.

"100 tons per week can be treated with ease, and on this basis the table is computed.

Tons.	Yielding per cent.	Value at 1s 6d. per lb.	Less cost of production.	Profit per week.	Profit per annum.	On £30,000 dividend per cent. per annum.
100	6 tons.	£1008	£100	£908	£47,216	157⅜
"	5	840	"	740	38,480	128
"	4	672	"	572	29,744	99
"	3	504	"	404	21,008	70
"	2	336	"	236	12,272	40⅞
"	1	168	"	68	3,536	11¾

"No notice is taken of the gold existing throughout the alluvium on the company's property and which will be returned by Mr Reading's process.

"The shareholders will observe that a yield of even one per cent. would avoid the necessity of any further call beyond that at present under payment.

"It may be as well also to state that Mr. Reading's operations have been confined entirely to what has been considered the poorest material."

Investors' operations in the stock and share market, during the past week, have been on a limited scale. Sellers still continue to predominate, but there is a feeling that prices of dividend-paying stocks are not likely to go lower. There have been a few transactions in bank shares, at last week's rates. City at 11¾. Joint Stock at 8¾, and New South Wales at 39, 39½, and 40. Commercial or New Zealand have not been dealt in. Union changed hands at 49. Steam shares met very little inquiry. Some A. S. N. at 15½ was the only business done. The same remark applies to insurance stock, the only sales being a parcel of Pacific at 2½. Peak Downs Copper Mining were in better request, and a number changed hands at 32s. 6d. to 33s. In Trunkey Creek Quartz Companies, sales of Sydney, contributory, are reported at par; Enterprise ditto at 1s. premium, and Proprietors 20s. paid at 10s. Wallsend Coal are 5s. lower, latest sales at 5. Gas-light, old and new, scarce at quotations. Debentures were in better request, and were placed to a fair amount at about late rates. New South Wales Terminables are firm at par. Treasury Bills, due 1870, sold at 3d. to 4d. premium. A parcel of perpetuals found a market at 99, and Queensland Debentures at 108. Some of the new issue of Queensland Treasury Bills, due 1873, brought 102. City of Sydney 101½ to 102.

The following table exhibits the state of the market at close:—

Country orders, in anticipation of the Christmas trade, have kept some of the wholesale houses tolerably busy for some days past, but this demand has been very little felt by others engaged in the import markets. Breadstuffs move slowly in bakers' lots, at £14 to £15; where parcels are forced upon the market considerably less money has to be accepted. There is hardly any sale for wheat at holders' quotations. Bulk and bottle ale is without alteration, best brands of the former are worth £7, bottled 9s. 3d. to 10s. Brandies are quiet at 7s. 6d. to 7s. 9d. for trade quantities. The largest holders of rum are firm in their demands for small lots. Some outside parcels are offered at less money. 11s. is asked for geneva. An invoice offered at auction on Wednesday failed to find a market. A quantity of wines and spirits was similarly dealt with. There have been some trade sales of candles at last week's quotations, and the market closes firm. Currants are very saleable, at 4½d. to 5½d. for sound lots; inferior and faulty bring from 4d.

In metals, we hear of a limited business in galvanized iron on terms withheld. Sales of rice are confined to lots of a ton or two, for which prices are unchanged. Sugars are so scarce that prices of ration and counter sorts are quite nominal. The non-arrival of the Isle of Wight has run the Sugar Company out of stock. The Charlotte Andrews, from Mauritius for Sydney, was telegraphed off the Otway to-day. The tea market has hardened since the arrival of the mail news bringing rumours of the loss of the Bella Rosa, for the colonies, with 245,000 lbs. The Mobil is also missing, and a third, the Hanover, is overdue.

At Messrs. Bradley, Newton, and Lamb's sale to-day, a cargo of South Sea Island produce, including 1800 lbs. tortoiseshell and 26 casks cocoanut oil changed hands; the bulk of the shell realised 13s. 3d. per lb., 1 case 11s. 3d., and sundry packages small shell, hoofs, &c., 3s. 3d. and 6s. per lb.; the oil brought £31 and £31 15s. per tun.

Messrs. Fotheringham and Darvall offered a quantity of oilmen's stores, groceries, &c., and disposed of some lines at fair prices. A parcel of castor oil, in bulk, realised 5d. per lb.; currants at 4¾d., &c.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench sold by auction to-day, 2 houses, Nos. 58 and 60, Goulburn-street, £910—Dr. Fyffe purchaser; 6½ acres of land on the Unwin's Bridge Road, Newtown, £500; lot 8, section 2, Bland's subdivision, Ashfield, £100; and 2 acres of land, Foss's subdivision, Hunter's Hill, £100—Mr. J. Roberts purchaser. Mr. Pritchard's mill and other premises at the foot of King-street, were bought in by the vendor at £5000.

PUBLIC NOTICES

APPEAL.

The Committee of the New South Wales DEAF AND DUMB AND BLIND INSTITUTION are now earnestly engaged in raising funds to supplement the Government grant of £1250 for the purchase of a suitable house for the Institution, and as the number of the inmates has been increased more than one-third within the last twelve months, making about forty pupils, additional accommodation is urgently required. Subscriptions and donations will be thankfully received by the Honorary Treasurer, W. LOVE, Esq., 474, George-street; or by

ELLIS ROBINSON, Honorary Secretary, 486, George-street.

The desire of the committee to purchase suitable premises is increased by the necessity of giving the pupils some form of industrial education, to enable them to earn their living after leaving the Institution; for this purpose workshops and buildings are necessary, and the committee would scarcely feel justified in erecting such on leasehold property.

The following Ladies of the Visiting Committee have consented to collect subscriptions:—

HENFREY and TOOHEY, having entered the field as Brewers, intimate to their friends and the general public, that they are prepared to supply Ale, having all the good qualities of the imported without its narcotic influence. The Ale brewed in the neighbouring colonies has almost superseded the imported, being more suited to the climate.
H. and T., seeing no reason why such should not be the result here, confidently anticipate that the eradication of the existing prejudice against ale of colonial production will be only a question of time, and that New South Wales, in this as in most other articles, may be entirely independent of the home market.

THE TAILOR OF TAMWORTH.

Despite the aspersions which have been cast upon the morale of this play, the Management are happy to say that the verdict of the public has reversed the judgment of the critics. Crowded audiences, composed of the élite of Sydney, have nightly testified that the popular opinion is in favour of FORMOSA, and that there is not a line in the piece which can offend the modesty of the most fastidious.

SAINT ANDREW'S DAY.

BOTANY TEA GARDENS.

The liberal patronage, so steadily and constantly increasing, which has been bestowed on this establishment since it came into the hands of the present proprietor, he desires most thankfully to acknowledge, and trusts he shall be successful in testifying by increased attention (if that be possible), and by continually augmenting the attractions of the establishment (which the favour of his patrons enables him to do), how sincerely grateful he is for the kind support he has hitherto experienced, and which he feels confident will not be withdrawn so long as he shall continue to deserve it.

The approaching holiday demands that he again place the particular attractions of the Botany Tea Gardens before the public, in order that the class on whose support he depends may know where they can spend the day without fear of annoyance from vulgar sights and sounds, the dread of which hinders many families from mixing in the festivities now provided for every holiday.

Nature and art have combined with rare success to beautify the spot, and to dance there upon the sward is intensely delightful, if the sun's rays be not too ardent—to provide against which contingency with a floor as level as a billiard table, affording space for three hundred dancers, and from whence all the beauty of the scene may be realized, has lately been erected.

Excellent sports may be had by FISHING IN THE SERPENTINE WATERS, which intersect the grounds, and is crowded with finny occupants.

A more attractive spot, or one better fitted by its grassy lawns, shady walks, horticultural displays, &c., for the purpose to which it is now devoted, cannot well be conceived, and certainly it is unparalleled in the colony.

TEA and COFFEE, with every adjunct which can be desired to furnish a LUXURIOUS REPAST, (including fresh cut SALADS of every kind,) CONSTANTLY IN READINESS, and will be served with THE MOST ASSIDUOUS ATTENTION,

OWING to the continued increase of business combined with the result of the application of ready-money principle in buying and selling, J. TURNER, the proprietor of the MARKET CLOTH HALL, is now enabled to supply all goods throughout the stock at fully ten per cent. less this year than has hitherto been charged, without in any way compromising his fame for the superior make, style, and finish of all garments made at the above establishment, the reduction in price being effected by having the goods manufactured expressly to his own orders, and thereby saving to his customers the amount usually charged by merchants for importing.

J. T. has now on hand the largest and most magnificent stock of woollens in the colony to select from, an inspection of which is respectfully invited. The trade and public supplied with cut lengths or piece at wholesale prices.

All goods are well shrunk before made up.

The most talented cutters in the colony are employed, and perfection is obtained by each having charge of the garment they are most skilful at cutting. The very large business of the Market Cloth Hall has in that respect an advantage that cannot fail to give universal satisfaction.

6 miles from LIMEKILNS,
20 miles from SOFALA,
situated as above described, on CLEAR CREEK, with a very large frontage to Fitzroy-street, containing 8 acres 2 roods 26 perches, and being allotments Nos. 11 and 12 of section No. 5 of the VILLAGE OF PEEL, and sold as lots Nos. 3 and 4 in pursuance of proclamation of 29th July, 1851.
THE FLOUR MILL and all the BUILDINGS are of really first-class construction, having been built under the supervision of the present proprietor; they are spacious, and well adapted for carrying on the milling business upon a very extensive scale, and the MACHINERY, PLANT, and WORKING GEAR is of the very best description. The engine is of about 20-horse power, and the whole is at the present time in THOROUGH WORKING ORDER.
This splendid property is in the very heart of the Western Districts, having around it the VERY BEST WHEAT PRODUCING PROPERTIES in the colony, besides the various large townships and the very numerous mining population now accumulating on the several extensive mining properties in the neighbourhood of Bathurst.
☞ It is needless to remind speculators, millers, and intending purchasers that the very large production of wheat now taking place in the Western districts, coupled with the facilities afforded by the railway for transit, has created so large a consumption for the colonial-grown flour that the imported article is scarcely saleable at the present time in the Sydney market; and that such being the case, a capital opportunity now presents itself for making an investment that must result IN A HANDSOME RETURN.
 The Auctioneers beg to remind purchasers that the Sale of this superior property is peremptory.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT.

WEST BOGAN, Nos. 2 and 3.

Estimated capability, 4000 Head CATTLE.

HARRISON and JONES have been instructed by Joseph Aarons, Esq. to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 12th January, 1870, at 12 o'clock,

Those choice blocks of cattle country,

WEST BOGAN, Nos. 2 and 3,

having 10 miles frontage to the BOGAN RIVER, by 15 miles back, and embracing an area of some 96,000 acres of the richest fattening country, consisting of fine open undulating forest, with large quantities of salt bush, wild oats, and fattening herbage. This station adjoins those of Messrs. Richardson, Brothers, and John Brown.

With the runs will be sold

1800 head CATTLE, more or less, being a quiet, well-bred herd, the principal part being fat.

The IMPROVEMENTS are most elaborate. There is about 15 miles of fencing completed, 20-acre cultivation paddock; tailing paddock, 20 acres; cottage, men's huts, out-offices, stock and drafting yards, &c., &c.

The WATER is thoroughly permanent, one large dam erected at the lower end of the run throws the water back about 4 miles, another on the upper part of the run backs the water up about 2 miles, which is from 12 to 16 feet deep; there are also waterholes all over the run.

The innumerable advantages of this station are so manifest that we refrain from adding any remarks of our own, except that those looking out for really good, safe, and remunerative cattle property should give this their attention, as it presents a chance very seldom met with in New South Wales.

Full particulars may be obtained from HARRISON and JONES, Sydney.

BLIGH DISTRICT.

QUILBONE STATION.

Estimated capability, 8000 SHEEP.

HARRISON and JONES have received instructions from Joseph Aarons, Esq., to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 12th January, 1870, at 12 o'clock,

That unsurpassed and snug little property known as situated in the Bligh district, and having a frontage of 7 miles to the Marthaguy Creek, and surrounded by Messrs. Dargin's and Smith's celebrated Mule stations, and Messrs. Rossiter and Knapp's runs.

With this station will be sold

5000 superior mixed sheep.

The country consists of open forest, large plains, and exhibits a luxuriant growth of all descriptions of fattening herbage, myall and salt bush being in superabundance; this country was plentifully watered during the whole of the late drought. There is a large dam on the lower end, besides numerous waterholes.

The improvements are very complete, the fencing being finished on the back and lower side; comfortable cottage, 5 rooms, verandah, huts, sheep-yards, stock-yards, milking-yards, &c., &c.

To those who know this beautiful district, which from the richness of its pasture lands might well be called the pick of the colony, it will be useless to make any further remark here, but to those who have never gone over this part, we might confidently say that it will be difficult to find a better property for its size than Quilbone.

Full particulars may be obtained from HARRISON and JONES, Sydney.

WHARFAGE DUES

Circular Quay and Harbour Steamers, Wharf. Sydney Cove.

Lease for Three Years, from 1st January, 1870.

Day of Sale, TUESDAY, 30th November, 1869.

HARRISON and JONES have received instructions from the Hon Saul Samuel, Esq., Treasurer and Secretary for Finance and Trade, to sell by public auction, at the Exchange, Bridge-street, on TUESDAY, the 30th November, at 12 o'clock,

The Lease for 3 years, commencing on the 1st day of January, 1870, of all the dues authorised to be collected at the Circular Quay, including the Harbour Steamers' Wharf, Sydney Cove.

The articles and conditions of sale under which the above mentioned dues will be offered for sale by auction, in one lot, are published in the GOVERNMENT GAZETTE, No. 234, dated 5th November, 1869, extracts from which may be obtained at the Auctioneers' Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, Sydney.

LACHLAN DISTRICT.

MICKIBIL, and GORMAN'S HILL STATIONS.

With 2500 Head CATTLE, more or less.

Terms:—One half cash upon the fall of the hammer; residue by promissory notes at twelve and twenty-four months, bearing eight per cent. interest, secured over stations and stock.

HARRISON and JONES are instructed by William Lee, Jun., Esq., to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 8th December, 1869, at 12 o'clock,

Those magnificent and advantageously situated stations,

MICKIBIL, and

GORMAN'S HILL.

MICKIBIL has a frontage to the LACHLAN RIVER of 8 miles by 6 miles back, and embraces some of the richest pastoral land in the colony, and is intersected about 5 miles back from the river by the WALLAROI CREEK, which runs right through the run, the immense advantages of which are too apparent to need special comment here.

GORMAN'S HILL is about 10 miles back from the creek above mentioned, and is 5 miles by 7. On this block all the PERMANENT WATER in that neighbourhood is situated; and as this was the first of the back blocks taken up, it was chosen by Mr. Lee as the very pick of this highly-favoured district, both on account of the abundance of the water and its marvellous richness in grass and herbage.

With this truly valuable property will be sold

2500 head cattle, more or less,

respecting which it should be particularly noticed that their ages will be from TWO YEARS old and upwards. Thus the buyer will get all grown cattle, instead of having to pay for mere calves, as is usually the case. The whole will be mustered and delivered.

The IMPROVEMENTS are all that could be desired on a station of this character, and include everything requisite for the efficient working of the run.

It is seldom a station is put into the market combining so many and important advantages as this, being so well situated for commanding both the Melbourne and Sydney markets, having abundant and well-distributed water, being unsurpassed for grazing purposes.

Full particulars may be obtained from HARRISON and JONES, Sydney.

FERNCLIFF, HUNTER'S HILL.

T. W. BOWDEN has been favoured with instructions from the proprietor, Henry Brown, Esq., to sell by auction, at the Land Sale Rooms, 154, Pitt-street, on THURSDAY, the 9th December, at 11 o'clock, for half-past 11 prompt,

The well known estate of Ferncliff, Hunter's Hill, subdivided into four portions.

LOT 1 contains 2 acres 1 rood, on which the dwelling-house and other buildings are erected, with other improvements of a varied kind, for the convenience, comfort, and pleasure of the resident, including an orange orchard, vineyard, flower garden, dairy, fish-pond, &c., &c., in constructing which no expense has been spared. The dwelling-house is erected of stone, with verandahs front and back, slated roof, containing six well finished rooms, pleasantly situated, so as to command beautiful views of the Lane Cove River, by which the land is bounded for about 200 feet. The approach to the river is by a series of terraces from the dwelling to the wharf and boat-house. The kitchen is detached from the residence, and built of stone, with servant's room above, slated roof. A good size Russell's cooking stove fixed in the building.

A large laundry, with copper boiler—fixed; the building, also of stone, attached is a fruit room fitted up with shelving and cupboards.

A stone-built stable, with a room for a man servant at one end, and for harness, &c., at the other.

An abundant supply of pure water in all seasons from two underground tanks cut in the solid rock.

LOT 2.—Adjoins lot one on the south side—called the back orchard, enclosed by stone wall on three sides. The land is thoroughly trenched, planted with the choicest fruit trees, now coming into full bearing. [illegible]

LOT 3.—Contains 4 acres 1 rood 36 perches, bounded on the west by lots 1 and 2, and on the north side by an extensive frontage to the river. This is a fine site for a large villa residence. Some buildings and other improvements are now on the land, also a supply of pure water from a large tank cut in the solid rock.

LOT 4 contains 1 acre 1 rood 18 perches, is also an excellent building site, having a good view of the river, with frontage to the main road leading to the steamers' wharf, distant only a few hundred yards. This land is laid down with prairie grass, yielding fine crops. It is enclosed on the west by a stone wall, and on the south and east by a close paling fence and osage orange hedge.

The Auctioneer, in directing attention to the sale of this property, could not expatiate too highly upon its advantages, but the limits of an advertisement prevent him. He therefore invites persons desirous of possessing a really comfortable retreat from the noise, dust, and bustle of the city, to visit this place and make a close inspection of it. Cards to view can be had at the auction rooms. The steamers ply constantly at very low rates.

The property is in the market solely because the interests of the owner require his removal to the country.

☞ MARRICKVILLE has improved within the last few years to a greater extent than any other suburb of the city. This has, to a great measure, been due not only to the natural advantages of the locality but to the admirable municipal action which has formed and widened roads, and on every side made permanent improvements. The sites now offered for sale are well known as occupying, without exception, the very pick of this suburb,—being elevated, commanding extensive beautiful views, and within easy distance from the Stanmore Road, the Railway station, and the 'bus stand. The whole will be absolutely sold, and purchasers are requested to inspect plan of subdivision and the sites on the ground, every lot having been pegged out so that no difficulty may arise to buyers in selecting.

THE FITZROY IRON MINES.

For Absolute Sale, by order of THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

THE FITZROY IRON WORKS COMPANY'S property contains 1600 acres of freehold land, intersected by the GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY, and having the NATTAI STATION on the property, within a few rods of the blast furnaces, and the buildings containing the immense and other Machinery.

MANUFACTURING PLANT

The estate contains practically an inexhaustible supply of the richest IRON ORE.

It also contains Mines of Anthracite and Bituminous Coal, both of which are well opened out; are in good working order, and have already been largely used in running out upwards of of very superior quality.

. A parcel of 40 acres of Land, situated at Marulan, containing an unlimited supply of Limestone, will also be included with the property.

About 120 acres of Land have been laid out, and form the township of

NEW SHEFFIELD.

Upwards of 50 acres have been already sold, and upon which is now settled a large population.

A list of the WORKING PLANT, which may be said to embrace every modern machine connected with iron works, from the reduction of the ore to the manufacture of rails for railways, and all other descriptions of marketable iron, will shortly be published; in the meantime an inventory of the machinery and other matters may be seen on application to the auctioneers.

TITLE.

The powers of the Board are exercised by virtue of an Act of Parliament, and the Title of the land is indefeasible under the Land Titles Act (Torrens').

Preliminary Notice.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the DIRECTORS OF THE FITZROY IRON WORKS COMPANY to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on an early date, of which due notice will be given,

The above highly important and valuable manufacturing property, further particulars of which will be published in a future advertisement.

☞ A complete descriptional advertisement of the above property would occupy so much space, that the auctioneers at present feel restrained to limit the publication of its particulars to the barest outline. In a future advertisement they purpose to supply some additional information, as well as to furnish a short history of the rise and progress of the Fitzroy Iron Mines from their discovery to the present time. In the meantime they will be happy to afford intending purchasers every information concerning the property upon application at the Rooms. They now confine themselves by drawing attention to the fact that this valuable property is in the market for bona fide sale, and will be unreservedly realised under the hammer at the date to be hereafter fixed. This course is pursued in consequence of the present company not being so constituted as to carry on the property to a successful issue, and hence the determination of the shareholders to wind up the affairs of the company in the above-mentioned manner.
